

WAGE EARNERS AT THE FAIR

Prominent Men Planning to Help Workers See the Great Exposition.

Wage earners of America are to see the World's Fair by tens of thousands under the auspices of the National Civic Federation. A new bureau of the Federation has just been established at St. Louis upon the World's Fair grounds. Back of the movement are Grover Cleveland, David R. Francis, Andrew Carnegie, Cornelius N. Bliss and others. Plans are making to have a vast number of the wage earners of the United States see the World's Fair, the most glorious spectacle of the age and the most influential factor in the education of the American citizen.

The bureau is in charge of Miss Gertrude Brooks, secretary of the Federation's welfare department, of which Mr. H. H. Freedland, head of the street railway system of New York city, is chairman. The bureau headquarters is in the east end of the Palace of Transportation, on the ground floor. The Exposition management is in hearty accord with this movement on the part of the Federation to induce the large manufacturers and other employers of labor to provide ways and means for the wage earners of America to visit the Exposition. President Francis is displaying personal interest in the undertaking by affording the Federation every facility for the consummation of its efforts, and in this connection he has directed Theodore Hardee, assistant to the secretary, to co-operate with Miss Brooks and Ralph M. Easley, chairman of the Federation's executive council, in every possible way.

The Exposition management has also equipped this bureau with clerical assistance and a full supply of World's Fair literature. The bureau will be used as headquarters for all wage earners coming to the Exposition under its auspices. The aim of the Federation is to make it feasible for the largest possible proportion of wage earners to visit St. Louis and see the World's Fair. It will see that they are met at the depot by responsible persons and conducted to suitable lodgings, where they will be treated fairly.

There will also be furnished, free of charge, appropriate itineraries indicat-

BLACK-DRAUGHT STOCK and POULTRY MEDICINE

Stock and poultry have few troubles which are not based on liver irregularities. Black-Draught Stock and Poultry Medicine is a bowel and liver remedy for stock. It puts the organs of digestion in a perfect condition. Prominent American breeders and farmers keep their herds and flocks healthy by giving them an occasional dose of Black-Draught Stock and Poultry Medicine in their food. Any stock raiser may buy a 25-cent half-pound sized tin of this medicine from his dealer and keep his stock in vigorous health for weeks. Dealers generally keep Black-Draught Stock and Poultry Medicine. If you do not want to go to a drug store, you can get it from the manufacturers, The Chattanooga Medicine Co., Chattanooga, Tenn.

ROCKWELL, Ga., Jan. 20, 1902.
Black-Draught Stock and Poultry Medicine is the best I have used. Our stock was looking bad when you sent me the medicine and now they are getting so fine. They are looking 25 per cent better.

ing the persons interested to be seen within a limit of one week, which is about the average time each party will spend here. It will also indicate the objects of special interest to various craftsmen in their particular lines, so that they may devote as much time as possible to the objects of peculiar interest to them. These and many other efforts will be made to help all wage earners to enjoy the benefits of this great Exposition comfortably and at an expense within their means.

Charles M. Schwab's Plan to Distribute His Fortune.

ADVOCATES MANUAL TRAINING.

Former Steel Trust President Would Establish Schools For Deformed as Well as Sound Children—Declines It Is Harder to Spend Money in the Right Way Than Many Imagine.

Charles M. Schwab, ex-president of the United States steel trust, while spending a short vacation at his summer home in Loreto, Pa., told recently how he is going to dispose of his wealth, says the New York Herald. He thinks there is "no essential credit in dying wealthy," and said he was not qualified to talk about philanthropy, but was willing to tell how he expects to part with his fortune. "You see," he went on, "it is a hard thing to spend money than most folks imagine—that is, to spend it in the right way. Industrial schools are my hobby—not only industrial schools for boys and girls of sound body, but where the crippled and deformed children may learn some useful occupation.

"I have observed during my connection with the steel industry that the tendency nowadays is for young men to have an ambition to get out of manual labor—work with the hands—and become engineers, electricians and professional men. The crying need of today is that young men be taught some useful work to do with their hands. "It believes the time will come when industrial training will be taught in every public school. The state will take it up. I am a strong believer in the public schools. I am a Roman Catholic, but I don't believe in parochial schools.

"Down in Homestead, in the industrial school I established, pupils from the parochial schools are not admitted.

"Boys and girls who go to school are taught nothing but books, books, books. They don't get the opportunity to learn how to do things with their hands—that which will be of practical value to them in life."

"Our most useful men are not the ones with the most intellectual training, but those who know how to do something or some kind of work with their hands.

"Our best educated men are those who started, after going through school, to educate themselves. When we combine education with a knowledge and desire to do manual labor, we have the elements of success."

"Mrs. Schwab and I have spent hundreds of thousands at Richmond Beach, New York. Never heard of that, did you? We did that very quietly. Our object was to teach crippled and deformed boys and girls useful occupations. But the storm of public criticism got so severe that we have decided not to do anything more just now. We'll start again some day. "Now, it's along these lines that we are going to spend our money, for manual training schools—that is, when we get some to spend. What little we have done in the philanthropic line has been so bitterly attacked that we are not going to do anything more just now. I may be a little sensitive, but public criticism hurts. It really hurts."

TRIBUTE TO OUR GIRLS.

Most Engaging and Delightful Quality, Says a British Visitor.

An Englishman who visited the United States writes thus in the London Mail:

"I have lately returned from a twelve months' residence in America. I visited New York, Boston, Philadelphia, Chicago and many other cities of the United States. I have had the pleasure of meeting some of the most charming women in these cities. I have never seen my good fortune to be introduced to. I have found the "American girl" better bred, more ingenious, far less restrained—certainly not vulgar—than her English sister.

"I am not speaking against my own countrywomen, but let us be just. Surely we have in this country many, many unimpeachable persons of the female sex who dress vulgarly, talk loudly and are altogether what a lady should not be. This class of person is to be met in every country.

"But, sir, I affirm that the average educated American girl is the most engaging and delightful quantity."

Plastin on Woman's Shoulders.
Surgeons at the Memorial hospital in Richmond, Va., recently grafted skin from a young pig to the shoulders of a woman who was badly burned by the explosion of a lamp several weeks ago in Richmond, says the Chicago Inter Ocean. The pig was chloroformed and a sufficient article removed from the softer portions of its body to cover the patient's wounds. The hospital physician, who refused to give the woman's name, says the operation promises to be entirely successful, although the woman may be obliged to eschew wearing décolleté gowns.

Sum the Word in This Club.
A queer organization called the South Side Mum club has been started at Scranton, Pa., by a number of men on Cedar avenue. They meet one night a week at 7:15 o'clock. By the time the meeting is in order and the roll called it is 7:30 o'clock. Then all the members stop talking, and not another word is spoken until 8:00, when they adjourn, says a Scranton dispatch. The idea of the club is to refrain from talking for one hour. The member who forgets himself and speaks is fined a dollar.

Aluminum Shoes For Horses.
In the Russian army aluminum horseshoes are said to have been tried with good results. A few horses in the Finland dragons were first chosen and shod with one aluminum shoe and three iron shoes each. The experiments showed that the aluminum shoes preserved the foot better than the iron ones.
