Ceremonies Attending Laying of the Corner Stone of the Public School Building.

County Superintendent of Schools Nightingale Orator of the Event.

Last Friday afternoon, May 19, at 2:25 o'clock, the corner stone of Barrington's new school building was placed in position, attended by simple, though appropriate ceremonies. The event called forth a large assemblage of citizens; business was practically suspended and people donned their holiday attire.

The ceremonies were announced to begin at 3 o'clock, but the program was delayed owing to the non-arrival of the chief orator, Dr. Nightingale, who was detained in Chicago.

At 4:30 o'clock the school children formed at the school grounds and led by the Ladies' Cornet Band marched to the C. & N. W. depot and awaited the arrival of the 4:50 train. Dr. A. E. Nightingale, superintendent of schools of Cook county, who was to deliver the address, arrived and was welcomed with cheers by the children, music by the band and greeting by President Plauge of the board of education. The speaker, members of the board of education and teachers of the school were escorted to the school grounds.

Members of the board of education, resident clergymen, the orator and prominent citizens took positions on the first floor at the east, main, entrance, the band and school children filled the portion north of this entrance, while a great crowd assembled at the east front.

John C. Plauge, president of the board of education, acted as master of ceremonies. A musical selection by the band was followed by an invocation by Rev. A. Harter of the Salem church. The school children united in that grand old chorus, "Illinois," after which Dr. Nightingale delivered an address in which he paid a tribute of praise to those who carried forward the great work of giving to the children of this school district the handsome hall of learning, a grand monument to local advancement, a credit to Cook county and the state. He did not fail to refer to the old worn out school building, and also to the element of our population who had opposed the move toward a betterment of our educational facilities. He gave credit to the board of education and the instructors for their active interest in promoting the commodious new home, all of which was justly deserved.

The address was well received and at its close numerous papers, photographs, records of the board of education, list of teachers, result of vote on proposition to bond district for new building, copies of the Chicago Tribune and Barrington Review of May 19, 1905, etc., were placed in the metal case by President Plauge. This was hermetically sealed, deposited in the corner stone, and the polished block heavily imbedded in cement on the northeast corner of the east front entrance. Rev. Stanger of St. Paul's church then delivered a short but eloquent talk, and Rev. F. N. Lapham closed the ceremonies with a benediction.

The stone marking this important event in our village history, bears upon its face the following:

The exercises of last Friday mark an event which has been anxiously looked forward to by the majority of our people—has for a number of years been the hope of teachers and pupils.

The agitation for a modern school building first took shape in June 1902, when the Review called attention to the wants of the district. This paper stated the plain, unvarnished facts about the barracks which was a disgrace to a village of this size, of wealth, and of up-to-date people. This paper kept up the "tirade"—as termed by those opposed to every improvement for public good—and was supported in the agitation by Prof. F. E. Smith, the teachers, and a number of citizens.

In 1903 a proposition was voted upon to purchase additional property for site of the building "to be built during the next four years," as this paper predicted, and the proposition carried by a grand majority. In 1904 Prof. Hanta took up the work of agitating, and soon the members of the board of education realized that the people were ready for the question. It was voted upon July 16, 1904, and carried; and immediately plans were drawn for the handsome ornament to our village, and monument to our enterprise, which our children may point to with just pride.

The old hall of learning, around which so many pleasant memories cluster, in which the young men and women—many of them now fathers and mothers—was erected in 1883, and by our people at that time considered a beautiful piece of architecture, a building adequate for the demands for "forty years to come." The building outlived its usefulness ten years ago. It was poorly ventilated, unsanitary, and inadequate in every way for school purposes, besides, it was a menace to the lives of children housed there, because of its flimsy construction giving no protection in case of fire.

While many of our citizens will recall pleasant days passed in the old building, none will regret to see the edifice removed, and will join with the multitude in admiration of the new home, a credit to the village and to the district which supports it.

Church Choir Concert

The auditorium of the Methodist Episcopal edifice was crowded to the doors last Friday evening by our people to listen to a program of music and readings rendered by members of the choir.

The program as a whole was well given, but we do not hesitate to say that there were no members on the program deserving of better treatment. Soloists, both vocal and instrumental, should never attempt to render in public, at least, compositions beyond their range of voice or skill.

The choruses were very well given; the contralto number by Miss Kingsley; and soprano numbers by Misses Bousley and Rieke. Miss Freeman's clarinet solo, selection from "Lalri-la-lai" waltzes, was nicely given.

Miss Walker's piano solo, "A Midsummer Night's Dream," a very difficult composition, was rendered most excellently and highly appreciated by lovers of good music properly produced.

Miss White displayed her excellent ability as an elocutionist in rendering "Ripah," and Elmer Peckham recited "John Jenkins' Sermon" in good voice and pleasing manner.

An offering was taken for the piano fund.

Explained Experience.

After six weeks' unprovoked activity, and labors the young people of the Baptist church celebrated their experience to raise money with an ice cream social in the church parlors Wednesday evening, where they told of their success and mishaps in earning various sums in a variety of ways, from carrying books and scrubbing floors to singing songs and giving private concerts. Some of the experiences were told in clever verses, and the people present were much amused.

A song program was also given, in which popular songs of worthy age were revived. The strains of "Sweet Marie" and "Jessie, Dear," making one feel young again. The sum gathered was $25.90.

Terrific Race With Death.

"Death" was fast approaching," writes Ralph F. Furness of Tampa, Fla., describing his fearful race with death, "as a result of liver trouble and heart disease, which had robbed me of sleep and of all interest in life. I had tried many different doctors and several medicines, but got no benefit until I began to use Electric Light. In three days I felt like a new man, and to-day I am cured of all my troubles." From the La Crosse (Wis.) Ledger-Press, we clip the following: "Rev. and Mrs. J. K. Fowler of this city announce the engagement of their daughter, Mae, to Dr. W. A. Shearer of Barrington, Ill. The marriage is to take place the latter part of June."

Why, certainly, every time a man enters a place where he has kept on sale his takes or is given a drink of intoxicants. Every time a man enters a place where coffins are exhibited for sale he is given or purchases aasket. One statement is as reasonable as the other.

Eugene Sullivan, ex-cook company constable of Chicago, contemplates establishing himself in the collection business in this village. Mr. Sullivan says that his business needs very aggressive work on the part of justices of the peace before whom he brings suits. That suburban justice courts are not overworked and hence of advantage to collection agencies. This field seems to attract Mr. Sullivan.

County Superintendent of Schools Nightingale referred, in a very gentle way, in his address at the laying of the corner stone of the school building, to circumstances on such occasions, and intimated that the masonic order should have had charge of the placing of the corner stone. It is customary to invite the masonic fraternity to carry out such exercises, and why the custom was not followed here is best known to the management.

The ladies of the Thursday club spent a most enjoyable afternoon at the pleasant home of Mrs. Otis yesterday. Many leading topics in regard to Japan were discussed, the principal one being Japanese Art and Literature. A 5 o'clock tea was served by the hostess assisted by her daughters Grace and Beulah. The tables were decorated with tulips and carnations and laden with the delicacies of the season. Next Thursday Mrs. Thorp will entertain the club.

Defeated as Deserved

The striking teamsters of Chicago have met their just desert—defeat. It was expected that they would because they were in the wrong from the start. They were beaten because public sentiment was against them, and sentiment was against them for several reasons. The first reason was that of which was that the teamsters are not skilled laborers and their union is not legitimately a labor union.

Public sentiment was opposed to them because of their obvious deference to run over the community roughshod and because of the brutality with which they treated the men who took their cast-off jobs. They deserve the punishment now being meted out to them—loss of employment and condemnation of the public.

The big buildings of the American Malleable Iron company, at Chicago Highlands, just outside the limits of Barrington, may soon be occupied. The Waukegan Sun, of last Tuesday says:

"From inquiries being made by the promoters of the much talked-of, but so far undeveloped Flagler Steel company's plant at Rondout, it appears evident that the promoters are now trying to cast their lot among places they can obtain a site and that Chicago Highlands is now being seriously considered as the place. Saturday promoters of the Flagler company went

Lincoln at Gettysburg

FOURSCORE and seven years ago our fathers brought forth on this continent a new nation, conceived in liberty and dedicated to the proposition that all men are created equal. Now we are engaged in a great civil war, testing whether that nation, or any nation so conceived and so dedicated, can long endure. We are met on a great battlefield of that war. We have come to dedicate a portion of that field as a final resting place for those who here gave their lives that that nation might live. It is altogether fitting and proper that we should do this. But in a larger sense we cannot dedicate, we cannot consecrate, we cannot hallow this ground. The brave men, living and dead, who struggled here have consecrated it far above our power to add or detract. The world will little note nor long remember what we say here, but it can never forget what they did here. It is for us, the living, rather to be dedicated here to the unfinished work which they who fought here have thus far so nobly advanced. It is rather for us to be here dedicated to the great task remaining before us, that from these honored dead we take increased devotion to that cause for which they gave the last full measure of devotion; that we here highly resolve that these dead shall not have died in vain; that that nation, under God, shall have a new birth of freedom, and that government of the people, by the people and for the people shall not perish from the earth.—Address of President Lincoln at Gettysburg, Nov. 19, 1863.

to Chicago Highlands to look over the place and upon seeing the plant formerly occupied by the Malleable Iron company stated that it was just what they wanted for their steel plant. It just suits their purpose and they are trying to close a deal with the Highlands association, then the Rondout deal would appear to "be up in the air."

"There was never any 'deal' closed at Rondout; no money was put up certainly, perhaps for options on certain lands for railway trackbeds. Chicago Highlands offers many inducements and advantages which Rondout does not possess and the chances are that should the Flagler company decide to locate on the Outer Belt that Chicago Highlands will receive very favorable consideration.

Very little curbing has been done along the streets the past two years. More of this work should be done. It makes a big improvement in the looks of the property, and it is easy to keep the road nicely graded and weeds cut down. Let us have more curbing along the streets.
