Memorial Day was fittingly observed in our village. In the morning the G. A. R. went to the Catholic cemetery to honor the brave dead resting there, and in the afternoon the Grand Army and the relief corps were joined by the school children, and all formed in line at the G. A. R. hall, and marched to the Wauconda cemetery, led by the Wauconda band, where the usual services were held. The afternoon program was held in the Oakland hall, Rev. D. C. Dutton, of McGregor, Ia., delivering the address.

Huge Task.

It was a huge task to undertake the cure of such a bad case of kidney disease as that of C. F. Collier, of Cherokee, Ia., but Electric Bitters did it. He writes: "My kidneys were so far gone I could not sit on a chair without a cushion, and suffered from dreadful backache, headache and depression. In Electric Bitters, however, I found a cure, and by them was restored to perfect health. I recommend this great tonic medicine to all with weak kidneys, liver, or stomach. Guaranteed by the Barrington Pharmacy; price 50c."

Law was Violated.

There is considerable comment in relation to the overcrowding of Odd Fellows' hall last Tuesday evening. That the hall was filled to what is known the danger line is a fact, and that it should not be allowed again is also correct.

A gentleman calls attention to a village ordinance relating to the seating of public buildings, and the same should be taken into consideration by those who have the arrangement of the seating of such buildings.

While there is no danger of a collapse of Odd Fellows' hall there is danger there, as in every other public building. Some idiot might raise a cry of fire and cause a panic or something might happen on the stage to cause a desire to get out of the hall; therefore, two aisles should be kept open and free of chairs or any other article to block the passageway. The ordinance referred to reads as follows:

Sec. 7, chap. 2, No. 10, which states that no person shall be placed or permitted to remain in or across the lobby, aisles or passageways in any hall or other public building, when the same is occupied by the public, under a penalty of $25 for each and every violation of this section.

Memorial Day

May 30, the day set apart to do honor to the memory of our soldier dead, was observed here by the G. A. R., the W. R. C., children of the public school and a large number of citizens. The usual program was carried out, parade of veterans and school children to Greenwood cemetery where the ceremonies of decorating graves of departed comrades took place. This occupied the forenoon.

In the afternoon exercises were held at the platform erected on South Hawley street near Grove avenue. Music was furnished by a quartette and the Barrington Cornet band. The invocation was offered by Rev. Stanger of St. Paul's church, and the address by J. W. Cecil of Chicago. It is the opinion of many that the oration by Mr. Cecil was the best heard here in a number of years.
