Spring Wheat in the Dakotas in Better Shape, Owing to the Rust Fungus, Owing to the Rust Fungus.

Washington, July 19.—Favorable temperatures prevailed throughout the country during the week ended July 17, says the weather bureau's weekly crop summary.

Heavy rains interfered with work in the Ohio Valley and over a large part of the South Atlantic and east gulf states, but a general absence of rain in the west gulf districts, with only light showers over much of the Missouri and upper Mississippi valleys, afforded favorable opportunity for much needed cultivation.

Some Injured to Corn. Corn has made splendid progress throughout nearly the whole of the corn belt, and is decidedly improved in the Missouri valley. With the general outlook for this crop is promising, it has sustained some injury on low land in Missouri and portions of the south Atlantic and east gulf states and is not in good state of cultivation in portions of the Ohio valley.

Harvesting where not finished in the more northerly districts is well advanced. Spring wheat has experienced a week of favorable weather, rust, still prevalent in the Dakotas, is not increasing. There is very little in Minnesota.

In the central Mississippi and Ohio valleys and portions of the middle Atlantic states the oats harvest has been interrupted, and considerable damage to both harvested and standing oats resulted from wet weather.

While too rapid growth of cotton and light fruiting are generally reported in the cotton belt, an improvement is indicated in many districts. Tobacco injured by rain. Injury to tobacco in Kentucky, Virginia and Maryland, but notwithstanding these conditions, the outlook in Kentucky is promising. A marked improvement is noted in Ohio, Pennsylvania and New York, and the crop is doing well in New England, Indiana and Wisconsin.

BANK CASHIER UNDER ARREST

Edgar County Bank Officials Charge Embezzlement to Junting.

ALLEGED $7,500 IS DUE CONCERN

Claim is Made That Foreign Correspondence Ledger, Damaged in Recent Explosion, Would Have Disclosed Large Shortage.

Paris, Ill., July 19.—Interest in the Edgar county bank-wrecking mystery revived yesterday when W. W. Junting, cashier of the bank, was arrested mysteriously at the time of the explosion, was arrested on a federal warrant charging him with embezzlement. Following the arrest Junting gave bond in the sum of $10,000 for his appearance at 4 o'clock p. m. today. The complaint, which is lodged by J. H. Farrah and R. H. Kile, president and cashier of the bank, charges Junting with the abstracting of funds to the amount of $7,500 by means of false entries.

Errors in Foreign Accounts. Junting's charge of the foreign correspondence ledger and this book was the only one damaged in the explosion. A large part of it was blown away and the remainder mutilated and burned. It has required several weeks of patient work to supply the missing accounts, but this was accomplished by the slips of original entry which were on file in the bank's temporary quarters. Junting was not in the vault at the time of the explosion.

Comparison of the accounts thus made up with the foreign accounts discrepancy to the amount named in the complaint has been uncovered. All other individual books in the bank have been included in the investigation and have been found in perfect condition.

Claims Proof is Positive. Parish state intervention of the federal authorities was solicited by the bank officials in order to remove the case so far as possible from any local influence.

He declines to make public the details of the shortage, saying it is not desirable to expose the hand of the prosecution any further than necessary. New York dispatch: Prompt retribution was meted out Monday night to Samuel Brooks, a bather at Audubon beach, whose criminal mischievousness imperilled the lives of three young women. Brooks was rescued by the police after having received a terrible beating at the hands of hundreds of men who had seen him rock a boat in which were seated and his occupants thrown into the water.

Carrie Bauer, Nellie Hatten and Agnes McLaughlin, each aged about 18 years, were rowing in the vicinity of many bathers when Brooks and his companion, who were in the water, approached, and, heedless of the protest of the young women, climbed into the boat. Taking possession of either end of the craft, the men began to rock the boat, and, although the thoroughly terrified girls begged the intruders to desist, continued until the boat upset.

Meanwhile Brooks and his companion swam away and the latter escaped. Brooks was less fortunate, and when he reached the shore an infuriated mob set upon him with umbrellas and sticks and might have killed him but for the intervention of the police. He was arrested.

We are speaking now of the average household composed of an average man and an average woman. THE TEACHER'S FOE

A LIFE ALWAYS THREATENED BY NEUROUS PROSTRATION. One Who Broke Down from Six Years of Overwork Tells How She Escaped. "I had been teaching in the city schools steadily for six years," said Miss James, whose recent return to the work from which she was driven by nervous collapse and prostration, they were greatly overcrowded, especially in the primary department of which I had charge, and I had been doing the work of two teachers. The strain was too much for my nerves and two years ago I fell into the crisis came.

"I was prostrated mentally and physically, sent in my resignation and never seemed to be able to resume work. It seemed to me then that I was the most miserable woman on earth. I was tormented by nervous headaches, worn out by inability to sleep, and had a little blood in my urine which did me good.

"After my active life, it was hard to bear idleness, and terribly depressing for keeping out the savings of years for medicines which did me no good. "How did you get back your health?" "A bare chance and a lot of faith led me to a cure. After I had suffered for many months, and when I was on my way to the grave, I happened to read an account of some cures effected by Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. The state of mind was so convincing that I bought a bottle. These pills would help me. Most people, I think, buy only one box for a trial, but I purchased six boxes at once, and when I had used them up, I was indeed well and had no need of any medicine.

"Dr. Williams' Pink Pills enriched my thin blood, gave me back my sleep, restored my appetite, gave me strength to face my duties, and I have been able to do my work as well as any of my numerous ailments. I have already taught for several months, and I cannot say enough in praise of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. "Miss Margaret M. James is now living at No. 128 Clay street, Dayton, Ohio. Many of her fellow teachers have also used Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and can testify to their efficacy. Send for a free trial bottle and you will be glad to see how they work."
