"DUE TO CARDUI" writes Miss, of Webster City, Iowa. "She is a healthy baby and we are both doing nicely. I am still taking Cardui, and would not be without it in the house."

corn will produce and sell each year three 1,500 pound stivers in addition to what is now being turned off from the farm if thought saved by the use of the silo was only so utilized. The want of the silo on the corn and the stock farm marks a distinct financial loss each year which on land worth $100 per acre should no longer be allowed.

We have two inquiries as to whether the rooster is a necessity in the poultry yard so far as egg production is concerned. He is not, for the hens lay their allotted number of eggs anyway, and that is more, their eggs are more preferred when the head of the hen is wanting, as they have better keeping qualities. Of course, the situation is different when the eggs are wanted for hatching.

There are two things which always seem a bit queer to us; yes, three. One is to trade off the faithful old family horse to a horse trader; another, to get all the eggs possible out of an old hen and then eat her up in a jolly people, and the other to sell the old family cow for beef. Of course, we do all these things on the plea of necessity and economy. Still, in a sentimental way it is unadvisable her- lastism.

The farmer of the near future will be making his own drainage, fence posts, water troughs and barn doors from cement. Cement posts are now cheap on the market at lower prices than those of red cedar. Drainage of six inches and up is being very successfully made and used. Watering troughs of any dimensions, and indestructible, are easily made, while cement is displacing planks for floors for the hogpens and stables.

It is worth remembering that no tame grass will give so good satisfaction on wet land as alkali clover. More of this clover should be grown.

Frog legs are a high priced delicacy, and many a man has the frog croaking at his door who does not know enough to catch them and cook them.

The interesting fact is given out that a soft wood railway tie is crossed, at a cost of 15 cents, will last a period of twenty years. This is likely to be the solution of the tie problem for the future.

The growing of Bermuda onions in Texas has been carried on the past season to such an extent that the business has become unprofitable. Two years ago it was the biggest agricultural snap in America.

The attempt to dispose of the weeds along the railway tracks by running a machine over the track which scorched and burned them did not prove a success. While the process checked the growth, it did not eradicate it.

The Poland-China hog represents the aristocrat of the hog family. He has been bred on such fine lines for so long that, as with some of the best, he has ceased to be prolific. For large litters of pigs we have to turn to the Duroc-Jerseys.

The danger from bad drinking water is not confined to the cities. If the well on your farm from which you get your water is located in a sag valley or gets the drain from the barnyard or other insanitary place the water will be getting into it.

The pine stumps of the yellow pine regions of the south are now being made to return a value of $33 per cord in turpentine, oil and byproducts by the new method of treating them. The old stumps being of greater value than the trees which grew on them were for lumber.

The heated term in July of this year resulted in a most remarkable growth of corn, which was just at that stage when hot weather and moisture would most greatly affect it. A growth of four inches in height was reported from many places for the twenty-four hours, or a foot in three days.

A reader wishes to know where he can find a market for mushrooms. These edible fungi are in good demand in all our cities, and the best way to find the market desired is to get in communication with some good commission house which makes a specialty of fruits and vegetables.

The crop of corn which might easily have been raised this season on the land would have been paid all the expense of the drainage, those fields which for lack of such drainage will not produce any corn worth harvesting. There are hundreds of thousands of acres of such land all through the country.

We often wonder why various forms of flies and creepers are not used to cover up unsightly spots around the home. The Virginia creeper is very useful for this purpose, being easily obtained and perfectly hardy. The wild grape is also very good and can be obtained from some nearby wood at the cost of but little trouble.

The south has the Johnson grass and the north the quack grass to contend with as aggressive pests. These grasses are much alike in habit, being extremely difficult of eradication from the soil when once they get possession. Each has some value as forage, but because neither can be controlled nor got rid of it becomes a dangerous occupant of the farm.

One acre of corn put in the silo will furnish three cows all the silage they will eat for a period of 200 days, forty pounds a day each. This ten acres of corn as used will supply thirty cows for the same length of time. In addition to the ensilage ration, the cows will need a little good hay and a protein ration of bran or gluten feed. This sort of ration will secure profitable results from any dairy of cows.

Four years of country telephone and rural mail service have revolutionized American farm life. The improvement of the country highways is now the chief center of attraction and bids to do more for the country resident than either of the other things named. More men are desiring a country home than ever before. After while the farm automobile will still further add to the pleasure of country living.

For all the corn country north of latitude 42 it is of the utmost importance that seed corn should be gathered from the field not later than the middle of October and be placed where it can thoroughly dry on autostraps by frost. This is the great secret in connection with securing a good stand of corn. It is unsafe to select seed when humidity is in the air and still more risky to depend upon getting seed from the crib when it is needed.

Just as soon as the cow gets to work in a grain raising and grain selling community a change may be noticed. There is more manure hauled out on the land, more land is kept in grass, more clover is grown, silos begin to appear, bigger and better barns are built, and houses and barns are painted, cash is paid and no store bills run, bank accounts begin to grow, that old mortgage begins to look sick, and sixty instead of thirty bushels of corn are raised. It has always been this way and always will be.

GOLD IN CROPS.
If reports are true, gold of a greater or less, probably less, quantity has been found in southern Nevada. This will be the financial graveyard for a lot of fools who in California, Klondike and Cripple Creek have been in the past. As some economist has said, there is far more profit in scratching the surface of the earth than ever came from digging around underneath. At the time of the Klondike fever many a man mortgaged or sold a gold mine in the shape of a good farm in order to raise funds to engage in a business of which he knew absolutely nothing. Many people are like the man in the who who traveled the world over and found a four leaf clover and, returning home empty handed, found his own farm yard full of it.

WOOD FOR PAVING.
It is interesting to note the return to wooden blocks for paving purposes in this age of brick and asphalt. Reports show that in England, where these cross-tied wooden blocks have been used for paving for some time, they are treated a life of from twelve to fifteen years, while hard woods last from three to four years longer, and they are subjected to the heaviest kind of traffic. The soundness of this type of paving and the excellent footing which it gives to horses are great recommendations in its favor. Two species of wood from Australia are said to be the best suited for this purpose—karr and jarrah—though Australian and California gums are also used with good results.

NEED OF SMALL FARMS.
There is much speculation as to the cause of the decline in population of many of the best agricultural sections of the west. It may be accounted for partly by the increased value of farm land, the young men being unable to buy farms; by the high price of farm help, compelling the greatly increased use of machinery, this in turn involving increased acreage to make it profitable. This condition is to be regretted, as the small farmer bringing in worked as the small farmer bringing in its trail a denser population, better schools, improved highways and a better social environment.

BEATING THE BEEF TRUST.
A community of farmers in western Iowa have adopted this plan to supply themselves with fresh meat and beat the beef trust: a beef cutter is killed each week by the local butcher and the meat divided up among the members of the syndicate, each man furnishing his best critic in turn. We see no difficulty at all about this plan, there is a fair dirvy up on porthouse and neck steaks, for there is almost sure to be some fellow in the lot that will try to get more than his share of the choice cuts.
