If the walls of the old pile could talk they would a tale unfold that would prove most interesting reading. The story would tell of the early lore affairs of many of the happy married folks of the village, and it would tell many secrets long since forgotten.
The old structure served the district well but modern ideas caused it to get in company with the "has beens."

ENTERED INTO REST.

Florence Esther Baumann Passes to the Better Life.
Florence Esther Baumann, daughter of Lambert and Adeline Baumann was born near Barrington, Ill., May 24, 1875 and died Sept. 2, 1905. Her father preceded her to the home beyond by fifteen years. She was the youngest of eight grown children. From childhood, however, she was never as strong physically and mentally as the other children, and required constant care. She was, in more than one sense, for over thirty years the baby of the family, and being of a very affectionate nature she became the pet of all. During the past thirteen months she has been an invalid, requiring care by day and night. Her sister Carrie was with her almost constantly, and did, with the help of the others, all that could be done to make the lot of the departed one as easy one.
The last few days of her life seemed no worse than many others have been. Even on the last evening she cheerfully bade her folks a "Good-night," and "Sleep well." She was restless about 15 minutes, when she quietly went to sleep to wake no more.
Home will feel homesome without her, but she is not mourned for without the hope of a happy reunion in the better world. She was buried on Wednesday noon from the Salem Evangelical church. Rev. A. Haeffel, the pastor, preached a short discourse to an attentive audience.
Richard Fred Brandt, son of Henry A. and Blinde Brandt, was born October 1, 1867, and died September 1, 1905, from spinal meningitis, having been sick but four days.
When a little baby brother came to his home ten months ago his parents receive the fines and make a report to the board of auditors, but it does not say that the commissioner shall turn over the fines to the board of auditors or any other body.

Now, the auditors want the fines collected by the commissioner, while that officer says: "Gentlemen, I have complied with the law; you must show me where to get off at." Mr. Williams has consulted legal advice and claims to know where he is at.
The board of auditors are up a tree awaiting the fines.

CONTEST THE WILL.

Daughters of Mrs. Johanna Reese Ask that Her Will Be Set Aside.
Mrs. Johanna Reese, who died some weeks ago, was possessed of considerable property. It seems that a few years ago she made a will in which she disposed of that property as follows: The farm in McHenry county to her daughter Mrs. Ida Kurz of Colorado; farm in Lake county and residence property in Barrington to her daughter Mrs. Nicholas Haecher. The disposition of the residence property was made to Mrs. Baecher for her use as she lived, then it was to become the property of her daughter, granddaughter of deceased.
The will was drawn by F. H. Frye and he was named as executor. Now the daughters, who are the only heirs, contest the will because it ties up the residence property and leaves it under the management of the executor. It is claimed the mother was not of sound mind when she signed the will, did not intend to thistle up the residence property, and had often spoken of making a new will.
They petitioned the probate court that the will be set aside and an administrator appointed. The petition was heard Tuesday when the will was admitted. The petitioners appealed and arguments will be heard at Waukegan next Tuesday.
Even a wise man gets lame when he attempts to argue with pretty women.
Give up the Church in Fly Time.
A farmer residing not a thousand miles from this locality, came to the pastor of his congregation and asked that his name be taken off the church books. "What is the trouble, Brother Jones?" asked the surprised pastor.

ride in the country. A good program and a fine lunch was enjoyed by all.
For Sale—Seven room house, acre of land, two frontages, fine trees, good walks. Two blocks from depot. To close estate. Bothwell street. Apply to E. Clark.
The Married Men were again defeated by the Wauconda team at that place Sunday afternoon. Many of the wives accompanied the players. A delightful afternoon was spent by all.
Misses Emma Kuebler and Rose Converse returned to Normal, Tuesday, to complete the kindergarten course. Miss Elvora Arpa is taking five weeks of special work before beginning her school.
Thursday evening Miss Mae Sefton was reminded of the fact that Thursday was her birthday by a surprise party, at her home north of town. When she returned from the lake she found about fifty of her friends in possession of the house. A delightful evening was spent by all present. After a light luncheon Mr. Burshire took some pictures of the party. All returned to their homes after a pleasant evening, wishing Mae "many happy returns of the day."
The Old School Building.
The old school house around which cluster so many pleasant recollections has outlived its usefulness as a hall of consented to his making his home, for the time being, with his uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Herman Schwemm. He was still at their home at the time of his death. They became attached to the lad about as much as the parents; and feel the loss sustained as acutely as keenly.

Richard was an affectionate and winsome boy, making friends with those he associated with. He was of a robust frame and no one would have thought of his early death. He was a member of the Salem church Sunday school, and was at his picnic at the old camp ground only a week before his death.
He will be greatly missed by his aunt, and Grandmother Brandt, whose errands he so cheerfully ran. During life he tried to cheer his sick grandmother with the hope of a better life. Little did she expect her grandchild to leave before she did.
The funeral services were largely attended. Rev. A. Haeffel preached the sermon.
The parents and friends wish to express their thanks for the help and sympathy shown them during the sickness and at the death of their loved one.
You can buy a Wheeler & Wilson or an Eldridge sewing machine at a bargain if taken at once. Address or call Review, Barrington, Ill.

This view of the building is taken from the south. The old building stands at the east front preventing a full view of the new edifice which will be ready for occupancy the first week in October. It is a modern building in every particular and will meet the demands of the district for years to come.
"I supposed you was a faithful follower of the lamb."
"Well, I sorter believed that myself, but there is just no use talkin'; a man can't serve the Lord when he has to milk cows in fly time. After the first heavy frost I'll try this church business again, but jest now I have either to sell the cows, give up the church, or be a darned hypocrite."
Pull Together.
There ought to be no factions in a country town. The prosperity of one individual affects the prosperity of every individual, and every improvement enhances the value of all property in the corporation, says the Investor. A town is simply a big family. Where there is discord there is little progress, but when there is a united pull, advancement is made easy.
Envy, jealousy and hatred are things to be despised. Envy is a canker that gnaws at the heart and makes the people sour, warps the intellect and makes you in passing judgment. Hatred does not pay even from a sordid point of view.
Some men try to expand their old debts by contracting new ones.
Diplomacy is often a knife in the hands of the unskilled.
