STREET JURY IN A QUANDARY

Widow's Evidence Fails to Clear Up Mystery Surrounding the Case.

LAWYER HAD BEEN THREATENED

Revolver Found Beneath Body May Have Belonged to Mrs. Streed, Although She Fails to Identify Weapon When on the Stand.

Cambridge, Ill., Oct. 11.—The first important testimony in the mystery surrounding the death of Attorney John H. Streed was taken Tuesday when the inquest, which has been twice postponed, was resumed. The coroner's jury spent almost the entire day on the case and held an evening session. It is the opinion of many that the jury will ask for another adjournment of several days before the case is concluded.

Mrs. Streed, the widow, spent several hours on the witness stand answering the questions of State's Attorney Sturtz, coroner McArthur, and the six jurors. Every phase of the mysterious case was covered, but she could not name the assassin nor give even a tangible clue.

Tells of Husband's Fears. Mrs. Streed was closely questioned as to the fears entertained by her husband, which he had made reference to in conversations with many Cambridge people. She said she thought these fears were largely due to threats which he had heard had been made against him, as told in the letter which he wrote to her when she was at St. Joseph, Mich., Sept. 6. He then mentioned only Dr. Powell, the man who committed suicide several weeks before the attorney's death.

Mrs. Streed was asked as to the blackmailing schemes of which much has been said. She told how Streed had mentioned the fact to her that an attempt had been made to blackmail him, but she said she did not know the matter at that time. She said he also told her attempts had been made to blackmail other Cambridge citizens.

She said she knew of the names of these other citizens. When questioned as to whether she knew of any motive for murder she was unable to state that she did, although she expressed a belief that her husband had been assaulted several times.

Mrs. Streed testified that two revolvers had been kept in the house, one of them belonging to her husband and the other, with a little longer barrel, to her. The revolver found under her husband's body was shown to her, and she said it looked very much like her revolver, although she declined to say it was the particular pistol she had owned.

Home Life Was Pleasant. It was when she was questioned regarding her husband's disposition and temperament that Mrs. Streed showed most feeling. She declared her husband was of open, generous nature, cheerful under all circumstances, and incapable of harboring a desire to commit suicide. She said he did not worry over money matters, and had no occasion to do so, for he had a good income and could have had financial help from her own relatives if he were poor.

Was Mikasa Mutiny Victim? Chicago dispatch: Government at-Tartar brought news from Japan that a story was current that the accident to the battleship Mikasa, at Sasebo, was the result of a mutiny on board because of the resentment by the crew to the peace terms.

Robert W. Collins, the correspondent who, with Kuroki's army throughout the campaign, was a passenger on the Tartar and said that the story was given some credence in diplomatic circles in Japan.

Want Wage Scale Restored. Fall River, Mass., dispatch: The textile council voted unanimously to request the manufacturers to increase wages before Oct. 23 to the scale in effect prior to 1914, when a 12 1/2 per cent reduction "costed seven months' strike of 27,000 cotton operatives.

They lost their fight, the manufacturers showing the reduced wage scale to be in accordance with the market at that time. The workmen now base their new demand on improved market conditions.

PEOPLE RANKED IN PRISON CELL

Indictments Pile Up Against the Teacher, Financier, Who Surrenders.

INSANITY MAY BE THE DEFENSE

Attorneys for Mr. Dougherty Decline to Discuss Matter, but Opinion Prevails That Attempt Will Be Made to Show Mental Incapacity.

Peoria, Ill., dispatch: Newton C. Dougherty, former superintendent of schools and bank president, Monday night occupied a prison cell. He did not try to give bond on the eighty-four indictments, which were returned by the grand jury against him Monday afternoon, but as soon as he learned that the jury had made a report and that it had indicted him he entered a carriage and drove directly to the county jail, where he gave himself up to Senator Potlatch. He was placed at once in the cell formerly occupied by Ota Bots, the wife murderer.

Shortly after 3 o'clock Monday afternoon the grand jury returned eighty-four indictments against Dougherty in addition to the thirteen already found. Forty-five of these are for forgery, each containing eight counts; thirty-one are for larceny, each containing six counts. The amounts involved are from $14.40 to $500. Bonds for the indictments were fixed by Judge Worthington at approximately $49,700.

At a special meeting of the school board it was announced that the board would issue attachments against all of Dougherty's real estate in the city. This amounts to about $50,000.

Big Crowd Hears Report. Never before in the history of Peoria county has a grand jury made a report embracing twelve distinct episodes of the life of a man, and those who were present when Judge Worthington took his seat. On question of Judge Worthington Foreman Grand Jury presented a statement of the case.

"Has the grand jury any more business to transact?" asked the court.

"Yes, sir," replied Foreman Miller, and the jury was ordered to retire for further consultation.

It was expected that a capias would be issued and a member of the sheriff's force sent to arrest Dougherty, but when he entered the courtroom the court and announced that Mr. Dougherty would appear of his own accord within one hour.

Members of the grand jury were at work Monday morning sorting canceled checks, drafts, etc., of which eight grain sacks, crammed full, were brought from the Peoria National bank and stored in the vault of the state's attorney. Mr. Bailey was in the grand jury room during the morning. It was noon when he came out.

"There is absolutely nothing new; no new 'developments,'" he said. "Confident of Conviction."

"The evidence is prima facie, the state's attorney declared in November term of the circuit court and the defendant must go to the penitentiary convicted of forgery," is the statement of State's Attorney Scholes.

"We have not seen the indictments, we have talked very little with our client and we have not decided upon the line of defense. Mr. Dougherty tells us that he can explain everything and we have advised him to say nothing for the present. Insanity? Well, I have nothing to say on that matter now. Certainly we have not yet set the line of defense."

There was a great deal of noise at the Polo grounds, but it was nearly all made before the game started. The crowd of spectators were all in the expectation that the beloved Glanis were about to rend the Quaker ball players from limb to limb and send the fragments back to Philadelphia in a direct prior car. It did not take long to convince the rampant rovers of the Polo ground that the Athletics were not present for the purpose of being slaughtered to make a Manhattan holiday, and that if any slaughter was to be done they would wield the ax.

To render the giant Indian pitcher, must get the lion's share of the credit for the victory. Superb is the only word that fully characterizes the work the big copper skinned athlete did on the slab for his team. He had the speed of an arrow shot from the bow of a Chippewa marksmen, he was as cool as an Eskimo in a snow hut, and his aim was as good as that of Davy Crockett when that hunter was wont to hit a squirrel in the eye.

CAREER OF WISCONSIN BANDIT GANG IS ENDED

One Dead and Seven in Jail—Wounded Robbers. It Is Thought, Will Recover.

Wautoma, Wis., dispatch: With one banait dead and seven in jail here, the authorities believe they have cleaned up the gang that robbed the Wisconsin positions and attempted to rob the bank here.

In addition to the three men taken alive by the farmers' posse, four other strangers were captured. They were taken on suspicion of a short time before the battle in the county took place and were brought here with the others.

Both of the wounded men probably will recover, and surgeons are doing all possible to prevent death from cheating the law. None of the prisoners would talk, but one of the wounded was identified as "The Rambler," the whose record of crime in Wisconsin runs back over ten years.

Every precaution is being taken to guard the jail against any chance possibility of escape by the robbers, who, desperate of their fate, undoubtedly have equally desperate friends who would leave nothing undone to effect a rescue.

Press Defeats Robber Band. Wild Rose, Wis., dispatch: Four bandits who robbed the postoffice here and attempted to loot the local bank fought a desperate battle with a posse of citizens in a thicket wood. One robber was killed, two were desperately wounded and the fourth surrendered.

WABASH DIRECTORS OUST RAMSEY FROM OFFICE

Frederick A. Delano Is Installed as President of the Railway at New York Meeting.

New York special: Evidently made apprehensive by the steps taken and the proceedings contemplated by Joseph Ramsey, Jr., to wrest control of the Wabash from Edward T. Jeffery, the railroad met Tuesday and by a bare majority adopted a resolution to oust Ramsey from the presidency of the road and installing Frederick A. Delano, vice president, in his place.

Mr. Ramsey received a formal notice that the directors' meeting would be held at the board of directors' room be represented by a minority of one against seven other directors who were arrayed against him. Among his opponents were George J. Gould, chairman of the board, Edward T. Jeffery, president of the Western Pacific; Frederick A. Delano, Winslow S. Pierce, Mr. Gould's personal counsel, Edgar T. Welles and other Gould adherents.

Mr. Gould presided at the meeting. It is understood that the removal of Mr. Ramsey was decided on by the Gould interests, with the object of preventing him from presiding at the stockholders' annual meeting at Toledo on Oct. 10.

PEACEFUL PICKETING ABSURD

Appellate Court Judge Declines Against Union and Finns Members.

Chicago, Ill., special: Peaceful picketing is as impossible as gentlemanly manners or lawful teaching, according to an opinion handed down by Justice Smith in the appellate court.

The case which called for the decision is that of Franklin union, No. 3, of whose members were fined $100 each and sentenced to thirty days' imprisonment by Judge Holdom for contempt of court nearly two years ago. At the same time Judge Holdom fined the union itself, which was an incorporated body, $1,000, and this decision is also affirmed by the appellate court.

"It is idle to talk of picketing for lawful persuasive purpose," said Judge Smith. "Men do not picket lines for the purpose of lawful persuasion and of conversation."

"Courts should be practical. When they form an opinion from evidence it must be a practical one. They have no opportunity to give vent to their imagination and in theory a peaceful picket line may be possible, but in fact, a picket line is never peaceful."

CRANBERRIES SUFFER BLIGHT

Fruit Will Be Scarce and High This Fall and Winter.

Trenton, N. J., special: Cranberries will be scarce and high during the coming fall and winter, according to reports which have been received by the state authorities from the cranberry growers of Massachusetts.

Blind Justice. The late Capt. "Joe" Nicholson, a famous detective, used to tell of a long time prisoner who had been in the house of correction while the captain ran that institution. Just before his term expired the convict called the captain and told him that justice was slow done and that an honest man would start fresh in the world.

Best in the World. Cream, Ark., Oct. 9th.—(Special)—After eighteen months suffering from Epilepsy, Backache and Kidney Complication, Mr. W. H. Smith of this place is a well man again and those who have watched his return to health unhesitatingly give all the credit to Dodd's Kidney Pills. In an interview regarding his cure, Mr. Smith says: "I had been low for eighteen months with my back and kidneys and also Epilepsy. I had taken everything I knew of and nothing seemed to do me any good till a friend told me to go to send for Dodd's Kidney Pills. I find that they are the greatest medicine in the world, for now I am able to work and am in fact as stout and strong as before I took it."
