Are Jap Boldiers Weak Kaced?
An American who formerly lived for some years in Japan explains the peculiar walk of the Japanese people and likewise the failure of the Japanese army to capture the Russiana after defeating them in bettle on the ground of racial weakness in the knees. The locomotion of the Japa is unlike that of people of other nationalities. They do not have a stately swing of the body and a firm step. The defect is asid to be due to the mode of sitting which the Japanese of all classes have failured for gons.

When in sitting posture, which is always on the foor or ground, the Japanese to for every superson.

When in siting posture, which is always on the floor or ground, the Japanese use their feet for a seat and rest also upon the knees, which are bent under them. This mode of resting, followed generation after generation, has produced a disease in the knee Joists which lends to fatigue on long walks. On two notable occasions, at the battle of Liaoyang and at Mukden, the Japanese got the best of the Russians is the fighting and had them, as it seemed, at their meery, yet the Russians walked out of the trap. The purcuit was weak and inefrectual. The reason given by newspaper correspondents of the failure of the Japanese to clinch the victory was that the troops were worn out with fighting and bunger. But the Russian soldiers were in a similar plight and easily outmarched their fost. The theory of a constitutional weakness in the knees is reasonable as an explanation of the 3d march as an explanation of the bad march-ing of the otherwise inviticible Japs.

Government Telegraphy.
The extension of the United States military telegraph system into our far northern possessions is worthly of note in these days of agitation for government ownership. The situation is exceptional, but the result shows how great the want that the military telegraph system is filling. In two months the toil out the government's own business has been charged up at more than $20,000, and in the same period the military telegraphers handled private business which yielded over $22,000 in toils. The government need the line-for its own purposes, and the cash taken from outsiders is so much gained toward paying for the plant.
The volume of business handled by the military line would make a good showing by the commercial methods of accounting. It is evident, too, that the service readered by the military operators is at least as good as that performed by commercial lines, for is one reach of the wireless service in use on the line not a single error was made in afferen months. The wireless referted to is an invention of the signal corps and has accurately transmitted many thousands of messages.

A World Peace Club.

Andrew Carnegte's revival of the old paradoxical asping. "We are going to keep the peace if we have to fight fole it," is not a mere bit of humor wheal it is seamed in the light of present conditions. First a cube and then soft words is the history of peace. Let a dosen policemen be appointed in a disorderly town and a score or two of roughs will bend together to see who is master. It is better that the few police settle it with some breken heads all around than to have hundreds of citizens in a free for all acray to suppress the hoodhum. Of course there would be some scraping before the international policenan could establish his authority. No fear of the result though, since the United States, France and Kagiand would have the job. A good threshing administered here and there would discourage belligerent tendencies among nations. Peace would come through ghting and remain because the fight was always one way, and wars for the sake of peace are nobler than wars of aggression and ambition.

William Winter, a theatrical critic whose memory harks back a bit, does not see any of Joe Jefferson's genius in the Rip Van Winkle of his son

Cold Endurance of Elephanes.
Writing to the Zoologisches Garten of Berlin, Professor Julius Schott stated that at a local menagerie he once any an elephant exposed in the open air to the conditions of a temperature below treating point, the animal appearing to the conditions of a temperature below treating point, the animal appearing to the conditions of a temperature below treating point, the animal appearing to an indian elephant named Topay, the property of a Mr. Thiladelphia, a traveling showman. Some years ago, finding himself in northern Sweden and the business of his calling at a low ebb, be decided to make for Streen, a small town almost within the arctic circle, and attend the annual fair. For the journey of thirty-five miles the animal's body was caparisoned in reindeer skin, and he was provided with boots of the same material. The weather was very cold, the temperature varying from Li degrees centifying to 20 de around. The linkshitants of stream and the neighboring Laple were snashed into the coffers of the enterprising showman, and when the market was over and the return journey made the elephant seemed little if any the worse for his experience.

Dellied Coins.

Perhaps one of the cleverest tricks ever played on Uncle Sam's money marts is credited to a Philadelphia woman. She had been engaged with a gang of counterfeiters and had learned the secrets of the work. She hired a room with sitem power, and with the secrets of the work with a small clearly size day of the she had a family drifts size day out five and but a warf of the size of the size

Prof. Jas. W. Wilson, of the South Dakota Agricultural College, says:
"The International Live Stock Exposition held annually in Chicago is probably the greatest institution of its kind in the world. It is great on account of its educational value, not only kind to the world. It is great on account of its educational value, not only to the eaterprising student of the West, but the packer, the speculator and the exporter of fancy stock in the East. Here is the place they come to a common center and observe with their own eyes the best in the land.
The careful admirer of good stock receives at this time compil inform atton to keep bim thinking for an entire year.

"It is impossible for one to do critic
in detail the numerous classes of stock or the number that has been on cettin, bitton in the past, but it is safe to predict that on account of the prisoerous condition of the country at large, the slow this full will be greater than ever."

"Every farmer can well afford to
for himself."

Low rates over the North-Western Line from all points west will be announced soon.

Consumption

There is no specific for consumption. Fresh air, exercise, nourishing food and Scott's Emulsion will come pretty near curing it, if there is anything to build on. Millions of people throughout the world are living and in good health on one lung.
