The Church and Democracy.

The gist of the argument set forth in "Religion and Politics," a recent volume from the study of the Rev. A. S. Crapsey, is that the modern church stands outside the current of influences that make for the world's progress. The author speaks of the "divorce of what is called religion from life, which is the characteristic of the modern world," and declares in specific terms that in the present state of Democracy, the church is not on the side of those "in whose supremacy the democratic revolution will reach its goal." To quote further:

It is with this phase of the revolution that the world is now occupied, and in this crisis, the organized church, and not, for the most part, with the rising power, but are either indifferent or are with the dominant power, and stand for privilege; the bishops in the Episcopal church, the privileged class among the clergy; the wealthy are a privileged class in society, and the clergy of any and every kind is becoming every day more and more odious. Equality, political, social and industrial, is a constantly growing demand, and all institutions that stand simply upon privilege are passing away. The democratic revolution is the working out into the life of the world of the life and teaching of Jesus. The only privilege that he claimed for himself or allowed to others was the privilege of service and sacrifice, and this is the only privilege that can endure in the day of the social revolution that is at hand.

Mr. Crapsey, who is a minister of the Episcopal church, maintains, moreover, that the churches fail to keep pace with the scientific spirit of the times and to give heed to the spirit of social evolution. His indictment is not aimed at religion, which is not dying out, but changing its mode of operation, but at the churches and denominations which "claim to represent the religious interests of mankind." These he places in the rear instead of in the van of the forces "that make for religious progress."

Diplomatic Secrets.

In publishing to the world the terms of their new treaty with Great Britain, Japan and Italy, probably had good grounds for breaking the usual custom of secrecy in cases of the kind. The most important treaties among European powers of late years have been kept secret. Recently the Kaiser had to ask for the text of the Anglo-French agreement, which he believed affected the interests of Germany.

The Austro-German treaty of alliance made in 1879 was communicated to Czar Alexander II. of Russia because of the close personal relations between the czar and the German emperor, but this step was taken against the wishes of the German chancellor, Bismarck, and the text was not published to the world until nine years after the event. Later the Russo-German agreement was kept secret all the time it was in force, and the terms of the dual alliance of Russia and Austria with the triple alliance of Germany, Austria and Italy remain unknown. If one party to a treaty, with the consent of the other or others, takes an outside paper into its confidence for some special reason, it is a matter of its own choosing and not called for by diplomatic courtesy.

A volunteer in the Spanish war had his uniform riddled with Mauser bullets which never "touched him," then was one of the few who escaped from the General Slocum holocaust. Next he rescued a woman from a burning hotel, getting his clothes burned half off, and now has survived the explosion of a gasoline tank on a motor boat which he was running. Naturally, being a man and not a cat, he is wondering just what kind of a finish is coming to him.

Automobiles who dare the farmers of the country to travel the public highways with dreams should take warning from the days when settlers used their shotgun on rooks and panthers. The farmers now own the country, and the existence of these "varmints" is only a tradition.

Canada finds that men teachers are not rushing after positions which pay only $300 or $400 a year. With the United States so close, men who are good for anything can earn double that or more and walk home to pass their vacations.

International Live Stock Exposition Dec. 2 to 9, 1905.

Prof. Jas. W. Wilson, of the South Dakota Agricultural College, says: "The International Live Stock Exposition held annually in Chicago is probably the greatest institution of its kind in the world. It is great on account of its educational value, not only to the enterprising student of the West, but the packer, the speculator and the exporter of fancy stock in the East. Here is the place they come to a common center and observe with their own eyes the best in the land. The careful admirer of good stock receives at this time enough information to keep him thinking for an entire year."

"It is impossible for one to describe in detail the numerous classes of stock or the number that has been on exhibition in the past, but it is safe to predict that on account of the prosperous condition of the country at large, the show this fall will be greater than ever."

"Every farmer can well afford to attend this show, to make comparisons for himself."

Low rates over the North-Western Line from all points west will be announced soon.

PALATINE LOCAL NEWS

Hunting is very poor around here this year. Two of our hunters succeeded in getting three ducks Sunday. Very few ducks have been flying in any direction.

Mrs. Swick, of Marshalltown, Iowa, was called here by the death of her sister, Mrs. Fockett, Sunday. She returned here last night. Her father, Timothy Dear, accompanied her, where he will make his home.

The M. W. A. made quite a hit in the big parade Saturday night. Their outfit being attractive, they received a hearty greeting all along the line. Palatine had three candidates, J. D. Perry, Garret Dovernan and Ed. Fleunie. About forty were present from here. All report it one of the grandest affairs they ever witnessed.

The order received 1652 new members, and 5,215 to its attendance at the meeting. It will be a gathering long to be remembered by all who attended.

The last football game of the season will be played Thanksgiving day. It is hoped that a large crowd will be present. The boys regret the have not been able to have games every week, but it seems Palatine's record has gone ahead and many are afraid to meet the boys it is hoped that there will be a game alright Thanksgiving day. Help the boys by being present. 'Tis true to Palatine.

"SAVED MY LIFE"

—That's what a prominent druggist said of Scott's Emulsion a short time ago. As a rule we don't use or refer to testimonials in addressing the public, but the above remark and similar expressions are made so often in connection with Scott's Emulsion that they are worthy of occasional note. From infancy to old age Scott's Emulsion offers a reliable means of remedying improper and weak development, restoring lost flesh and vitality, and repairing waste. The action of Scott's Emulsion is no more of a secret than the composition of the Emulsion itself. What it does it does through nourishment—the kind of nourishment that cannot be obtained in ordinary food. No system is too weak or delicate to retain Scott's Emulsion and gather good from it.

We will send you a sample free. See that this picture in the form of a label is on the wrapper of every bottle of Emulsion you buy.

An orchestra, has been formed here in Palatine to play for dances and small parties, a thing that has been needed for sometime. They will make their first appearance at the dance given by them Thanksgiving eve, at the Palatine opera house. The members have worked hard and are planning to make this one of the best parties of the season. Help them by attending, show that their efforts have not been in vain. They hope to appear many times during the winter.

OBITUARY.

Lura May Dean was born at Palatine, Ill., Sept. 22, 1871, moved to Chicago with her parents in 1888, where they lived one year, then returned to Palatine, where she spent the remainder of her life. July 29, 1890, she was united in marriage to Milton Fockett. She was a very conscientious woman and always tried to do her duty in every line of life. While residing in Chicago, she united with the Belden Avenue Baptist church. She was a loving wife, an affectionate daughter and kind neighbor. To know her was to love her. She passed from this earthly home to a more spiritual world, Nov. 17, 1905. She leaves a husband, Milton Fockett, father, Timothy Dear, brother Charles Dean, all of Palatine and a sister, Mrs. Herbert Swick, of Marshalltown, Iowa, to mourn her departure. Funeral services were held at the Trinity, Monday morning, Nov. 20, 1905. The body was taken, for burial, to Elmwood, where many of her friends had gathered to pay their last respects to their beloved friend.

"For the past five years, however, on the slightest sign of a cough or cold, I have taken Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, which has saved me from serious lung trouble. My mother's death was a sad loss for Mr. Reid, but he learned that lung trouble can be cured, and how to cure it. Quick relief and cure for coughs and colds. You can depend on Ayer's Hair Vigor to restore color to your gray hair, every time. Follow directions and it never fails to do this work. It stops falling of the hair, also. There's great satisfaction in knowing you are not going to be disappointed. Isn't that so?

My hair faded until it was about white. It took just one bottle of Ayer's Hair Vigor to restore it to its former dark color. Your Hair Vigor certainly does what you claim for it. — A. M. BROWN, A. Barrington, Ill.
