Peace and the Underworld.

Although diplomacy has effected a worldwide peace which gives a surface promise of lasting, there are ominous signs of turmoil and discontent in the older civilizations of Europe.

In Russia the great forces of the country are warring over issues which are social and industrial rather than political, and the Finlanders and Poles are out for complete independence.

In France there is for the first time in the history of that republic a solid group of radical Socialist deputies numbering seventeen, and their leader and drill master recently declared that Socialism has no business in politics except to hasten the meeting of capitalism.

Calling a Thief a Thief. A speaker at the recent meeting of the Maryland Bankers' association cited as an evidence of the relaxation of moral standards pervading society the general acceptance of the word "grafting" when plain stealing is meant.

Originally the word "graft" was widely used to mean money gained under the cover of law or ambiguous law. Prosecution of such cases failed because the shady transaction was shown to be legally warranted even when morally wrong.

A Virginia farmer recently drew first prize for a pumpkin which he exhibited at the county fair and then sent the yellow wonder to President Roosevelt.

After all it turns out that Russia's boast that the war in Manchuria was only a side show in her affairs came very near being the truth.

Cuba's Strained Finances. A tendency of the Cuban government to speculate on the revenues of the future is to be noted in the recent message of President Llanos to congress.
