Ungratiant Gravel.

We have a great deal lately of the chairmen consideration shown by men and women in the good old times, but the casual remarks of various writers of those days tend to dispel the illusion, says the London Chronicle. John Ashby, for instance, writing about 1678, tells us that "King James I's court was so far from being civil to women that the ladies—nay, the queen herself—were hardly permitted to enter the apartment without receiving a salute of 'front'." And in one of Richard Symon's pocketbooks there is the following account of Oliver Cromwell's behavior at his daughter's wedding in 1657: "The lord protector threw about neck pieces among the ladies to scold their rich cloaths, which they took as a favour, and also well sweetenings, and daubed all the white steeves they were to sit with well sweetenings."

Leather Guns.

Leather guns are not a thing of a curiosity, the honor of having invented them being a matter of dispute between the nations of Sweden and Scotland. According to one account, they were built of the finest hardened leather, girl about with hoops of iron and brass. According to another, they had a core of tin and were bound round with cordage. In neither case would they be expected to last long, though we are told that they could be "brought to discharge" as often as ten times in succession; but when we reflect how few are the number that can be fired from the monster guns of our own day without renewal of the inner tube we cannot afford to sneer at the shortness of their life. They were at any rate notable for they could be carried on a pony's back or stacked together by "the half dozen in 'barricades of wood' borne on wheels. Moreover, they did good service more than once, as for instance, at Newburn and at Cullinstree. Later on they seem to have fallen into disrepute, for we hear of the "leather gun by which the king and country hath been cheated," though—says an illustrious MacKay had some of "Bandy's stumps," as they were called, with him—Macmillan's Magazine.

The Account Settled in Fall.

At a make in Paris some years ago the Sieur d'Almerie was one of a group to whom he was imparting an account of his pedigree, which he claimed was derived from pharaohs of Egypt. Just then the late Baron de Rothchild approached the group, and one of its members called out: "Baron, come and let me make you acquainted with the Sieur d'Almerie. He came from pharaohs, and you ought to know each other." "Yes," said the Baron, bowing gravely and addressing D'Almerie, "I believe our families had some transactions in the past." "Yes," rejoined D'Almerie, "we have a record that your people when leaving the country borrowed a considerable amount of jewelry from my people, for which I should now like to be repaid with interest." "I remember the transaction," said Rothchild, "but the account was settled at due date. Your fathers received a check on the Bank of England."

BECAUSE IT IS THE BEST READ PAPER IN WESTERN COOK AND LAKE COUNTIES

CURES STOMACH TROUBLES

THE body gets its life from food properly digested. Healthy digestion means pure blood for the body, but stomach troubles arise from carelessness in eating and stomach disorders upset the entire system. Improperly masticated food sores on the stomach, causing distressing pains, belching and nausea. When over-eating is persisted in the stomach becomes weakened and worn out and dyspepsia follows the victim.

Thedford's Black-Draught cures dyspepsia. It frees the stomach and bowels of congested matter and gives the stomach new life. The stomach is quickly invigorated and the natural digestive results in a good appetite, with the power to thoroughly digest food.

You can build up your stomach with this mild and natural remedy. Try Thedford's Black-Draught today. You can buy a box from your dealer for 50c. If he does not keep it, send the money to The Chattanooga Medicine Co., Chattanooga, Tenn., and a package will be mailed you.
