In order to talk the muckrakers, the man who gave $120,000 to Princeton university concealed his name.

Paris cab horses work only every other day and are fed on the days they work only on the days they "rest."

A New York woman has been paralyzed while listening at the telephone. Some one must have cut loose at central for sure.

It has been computed that there are $2,000,000,000 in gold and jewels at the bottom of the sea on the route between England and India.

A marriage epidemic in a Pennsylvania town threatens to close the schools for lack of teachers who have succumbed to its ravages. And there is no amount of theory, educational system of legislation which will keep Cupid from interfering with the best laid plans of school boards and pedagogical experts.

A Frenchman has invented a process of sublimation, whereby a product and other cereals to currents of hot air, which preserves them from mold. French scientists claim that the invention has great practical value in wheat production, especially in southern Italy, southern Russia and at Constantinople the frost has been unusually severe.

Consul W. H. Bradley of Manchester sends a statement signed by the officials of the British United Textile Factory Workers' association, warning laborers not to flock to that city for employment, as the government in the several mills is working to its fullest capacity, and there is no scarcity of adult mill labor.

According to the report of the minister of mines and forests, the yield of gold in Victoria for the year 1905 amounted to 10,650 ounces gross, or 747,166 ounces fine, representing a value of approximately $15,000,000. The total output since the first discovery to the end of 1905 amounts to 68,367,403 ounces gross, with an estimated value of $1370,000,000.

The only English woman admitted by royal decree in recent years to any of the ancient orders of chivalry is Queen Alexandra, who is a member of the Garter. As such her majesty wears the broad ribbon of the Garter over her left shoulder on state occasions, the star upon the left shoulder, and when in uniform she wears at all it is clasped upon the left arm.

Not only does Henry Vanness of Rockville, Conn., enjoy the distinction of being the only negro railroad conductor in the country, but he has also the honor of being one of the men who have been longest in continuous railroad service in the country, having been employed as a conductor for 43 years without a break. He has been employed on the New York, New Haven & Hartford railroad since it was opened to traffic in 1863.

The telegraph does not reach everywhere. News arrived in London early in April that there had been a fight last December between British soldiers and natives on the west coast of Lake Tchad, in central Africa, during which 11 men were killed and 42 wounded. It took more than three months for the dispatch to reach the telegraph line.

Salvador has sent a sensible man to represent it in Washington. The new minister said the other day that the Salvadorean and the citizens of the other Central American countries are getting tired of war. They realize, he says, that if all the money spent for slaughter and the gratification of selfish ambitions of some individuals had been turned to the building of good roads, schools and other instrumentalities of civilization, Central America would comprise one united, prosperous and happy nation to-day.

Though she is not yet a social "bud," Miss Helen Taft has been nicknamed "the tulip girl" by her close friends. The title had its origin in her fondness for a certain style of dressing. The daughter of the secretary of war is almost 17 and will "come out" in the last winter of the Roosevelt administration. She is a classmate of Miss Ethel Roosevelt in the cathedral school.

Perhaps the most famous of all the skippers on the Atlantic to-day is Capt. Karl Kaempff, commander of the great Hamburg-American speed record-breaker Deutschland. Capt. Kaempff, as his friends prefer, is usually addressed as Commodore Kaempff, has been following the sea for nearly 40 years, and yet he is only a little over 53 years of age.

TESTIMONY IS BEGUN

EIGHT WITNESSES EXAMINED IN HAYWOOD TRIAL.

ALL ARE FROM CALDWELL
Steuernberg's Son Among Those Heard—Prosecution's Opening Statement Accuses "Inner Circle" of Many Murders.

Boise, Idaho.—Through James H. Hawley, senior of the group of prosecutors, the state of Idaho Tuesday made the opening statement against William D. Haywood, whom it charges with the murder of Frank Steuenerberg, and then began the presentation of testimony by which it hopes to prove the indictment laid against him.

The opening statement was a sweeping arraignment of the leaders of the Federation of Miners, who were charged with plotting wholesale murder and hiring assassins, all in a giant conspiracy of vengeance upon those who obstructed their way to victory through unionism, to control the political destinies of the communities covered by their organization, and to perpetuate their own power within the organization.

It charged a widespread conspiracy dating in inception from the North Idaho disturbance 15 years ago, reaching down to the murder of Frank Steuenerberg, and whose murdered victim was the best numbered miner. Hawley declared that wherever in the mining sections of the coast states the federation had been in control, there had been left a trail of blood to mark its operation.

Of the hired assassins he cried: "To them murder became a trade and assassination a means of living." Hawley spoke for nearly an hour and a half to a courtroom crowded but silent; to a jury which, sitting bolt upright, listened to every word; to a prisoner, who, with his family around him, was several times moved to deep emotion, and at one time pronounced the charges. Counsel for the defense opened fire before the statement had proceeded ten minutes, and the repetition of objections from the bench led to three or four sharp exchanges. They protested against the charge that the federation was guilty of "scores of murders" and the assertion that the conspiracy extended back to the first trouble in North Idaho, which was years before the accused was a member of the organization, and they accused Mr. Hawley of arguing the case in an opening statement which he charged, with exceptions of overruled objections and finally got an agreement whereby they could protect their rights as to the entire opening statement.

Judge Wood permitted the wide scope in the opening statement on the assurance of Mr. Hawley that the state could not prove the existence later of the conspiracy which it charged, and make the necessary legal connection.

Eight witnesses were examined. C. F. Pender, who passed outwards through the gate 20 minutes before Steuenerberg was blown up, told of the explosion and the shocking condition of the victim. J. W. Gue, surgeon, examined the body.

John C. Rice, N. S. Egan, and A. Halentine, residents of Caldwell, traced Orchard about the town at various times before and after the crime, and then came John Steuenerberg, son of the dead statesman, to the how Orchard, three days before the murder, had inquired of him about his father's movements.

THREE KILLED BY BLAST

CARLOAD OF GASOLINE EXPLODES AT REDDICK, ILL.

Bodies of Victims Are Torn to Fragments—Windows and Chimneys of Town Demolished.

Reddick, Ill.—Three persons were killed here Tuesday night by an explosion of a car loaded with gasoline. One of the men killed was Fred Hattling, a barber of Reddick. The others were John France and Austin Stockton, both from Danville. Ten persons were injured.

Ten persons were more or less injured by the burning oil that was scattered in all directions by the explosion. Hal Dowell, of Danville, the most seriously hurt, is not expected to live. The other nine were residents of the village of Reddick and were able to walk to their homes unassisted.

The three men, together with several other persons, were watching the three flat cars burn that had become ignited from a hot box on one of the trucks. As the train nears the junction of the Chicago, Indiana & Southern and the Washab railroads the car with the hot box was derailed, and two other cars loaded with oil also derailed into the ditch, and all caught fire. Next to these cars was another car loaded with gasoline, which caught fire from sparks from the burning cars.

A fearful explosion followed, which broke all the windows in the village and demolished chimneys of houses for miles. The three men killed, who were standing close to the gasoline car at the time, were blown to atoms and the fragments of their bodies scattered for a hundred yards around.

Fortunately a score or more of villagers who were on their way to watch the fire had not reached the place when the explosion occurred, or there would have been more fatalities.

Archbishop Ireland read this message from the president: "White House, Washington, June 1.—Archbishop Ireland, St. Paul: In this fortunate country of ours liberty and religion are natural allies and go hand in hand. ORCHARD IS WITNESS

STEUERNBERG'S SLAYER CONFESSES TO MANY MURDERS.

TALE SICKENS HEARERS
Wrecking of Mines, Brutal Killing of a Men and Plots Against Others Related in Boise Trial.

Boise, Idaho.—Alfred Horsley, alias Hank Orchard, the actual assassin of Frank Steuenerberg, went on the stand Wednesday as a witness against William D. Haywood, and made public confession of a long chain of brutal, revolting crimes. He said, at the inspiration and for the part of the leaders of the Western Federation of Miners.

An undertaking by the special prosecutor for the state that they would, by later proof and connection, legitimize his testimony opened the way like a floodgate to the whole diabolical story and throughout the entire day Orchard went on a crime recital to crime recital, each succeeding one seemingly more revolting than those that had come before.

Orchard confessed that as a member of the mob that wrecked the Hunker Hill and Sullivan mill in the Coeur d'Alene he lighted one of the fuses that carried fire to the giant explosion; confessed that he set the death trap in the Vindicator mine at Cripple Creek that blew out the lives of Superintendent McCormick and Foreman Beck; confessed that because he had not been paid for his first day's work at the Vindicator mine he had been treacherous to his associates by warning the managers of the Florence & Cripple Creek railway that there was a plot to blow up the mine; confessed that he cruelly fired three charges of buckshot into the body of Detective Lytle Gregory, of Denver, killing him instantly; confessed that for days he had been plotting to kill Governor Deary, waiting a chance to kill him; confessed that he and Steve Adams set and discharged the mine under the spot at Independence that instantly killed 11 men; confessed that failing in an attempt to poison Fred Bradley, of San Francisco, he blew him and his house up with a bomb of gelatin.

As he has more brutal crimes to tell that will bring his bloody career down to its end at Caldwell, where with a great bomb he killed Gov. Steuenerberg.

His story was told to a tense, nerve-ridden crowd that watched with staring eyes for every move and word of the confessing witness; a crowd that was sickened and weary of his disgusting details. In the afternoon, secured adjournment for the day.

TUCKER JAILED FOR CONTEMPT.

Uncle Sam Oil Company Secretary Accuses Federal Judges.

Leavenworth, Kan.—Judge W. C. Hook, of the United States circuit court, Wednesday sentenced H. H. Tucker, Jr., the indicted secretary of the Uncle Sam Oil company, to serve three months in the Leavenworth county jail for contempt of court, the contempt being a sensational affidavit filed by Tucker alleging a conspiracy between Federal Judges Pollock, McPherson and Phillips and the Standard Oil company to drive the Uncle Sam company out of business.

Judge Hook delivered a terrific arraignment of Attorney Albert L. Wilson of Kansas City, who prepared the affidavit. He said the only purpose of filing the affidavit was to create a sensation in the papers and influence the public sentiment. Hook declared there was no proceeding for such an affidavit and the clerk of the court was criticised for placing it on file. It was stricken from the files by order of Judge Hook.
