Wet And Driest.

With a telephone in your home you defy "blue" weather and enjoy the peace and pleasure of a contented life. When tired or discouraged you may sit down and talk to a distant friend or relative without effort. Regardless of your finances, we have a rate for your purse. Chicago Telephone Company.

A Memorable Day.

One of the days we remember with pleasure, as well as with pride, to our health, is the one on which we became acquainted with Dr. King's New Life Pills, the painless purifiers that cure headache and biliousness, and keep the bowels right. 25c at Barrington Pharmacy.

To Young People.

Insist upon having a telephone in your home. Your parents may not realize its value. You do. Don't let them rest until they order. Your happiness is at stake. Insist! Five cents per day. Chicago Telephone Company.

"You have no sense of humor," he complained. "You can't take a joke." "I took one when I got you," he bitterly replied.—Chicago Record-Herald.

The Charming Woman

Is not necessarily one of perfect form and features. Many a plain woman who could not serve as an artist's model, possesses those rare qualities that all the world admires: neatness, clear eyes, clean smooth skin and that sprightly line of step and action that accompany good health. A physically weak woman is never attractive, not even to herself. Electric Bitters restore weak women give strong nerves, bright eyes, smooth, velvety skin, beautiful complexion. Guaranteed by Barrington Pharmacy, 50c.

Notice.

Notice is hereby given that all thistles on the farms of Cuba township must be cut. HERMAN HACKER, Thistle Commissioner.

The first practical horseless carriage made its appearance on the Paris boulevards in 1880 and was owned and driven by Count Albert de Dion.

Long Live the King!

Is the popular cry throughout European countries; while in America, the cry of the present day is "Long live Dr. King's New Discovery, King of Throat and Lung Remedies," of which Mrs. Julia Ryder Paine, Truro, Mass., says: "It never fails to give immediate relief and to quickly cure a cough or cold." Mrs. Paine's opinion is shared by a majority of the inhabitants of this country. New Discovery cures weak lungs and sore throats after all other remedies have failed; and for coughs and colds it's the only cure. Guaranteed by Barrington Pharmacy. 50c and $1.00 Trial bottle free.

Home Sunshine.

Your home will be brightened by a telephone. It gives you power to talk to friends, relatives or business houses. Get a telephone even if you have no other conveniences in your home. Five cents per day. Chicago Telephone Company.

Are you Old Fashioned?

Get a telephone and be up-to-date. Other people use it. Even Chinese laundries realize its value. Are you as wise? Five cents per day. Chicago Telephone Company.

The faster a man travels the sooner he will get there. It is not wonder that he lives the sooner he will get there too.—Exchange.

Women's Right.

Every housewife has a right to demand a telephone in her home. It eases the drudgery of housework, it lessens the loneliness of a long, dreary day. It is a constant guardian and protector. Not a luxury for we have a rate for any purse. Chicago Telephone Company.

A Wonderful Happening

Port Byron, N.Y., has witnessed one of the most remarkable cases of healing ever recorded. Amos F. King, of that place says: "Bucklen's Arnica Salve cured a sore on my leg with which I had suffered over 80 years. I am now eighty-five." Guaranteed to cure all sores, by Barrington Pharmacy 50c. ## THE CRAFTY WOLF.

Stories of His Man Eating Facts Said to Be Untrue.

A skeptical person calling himself St. Croix has been trying to find out whether wolves and bears are misled by the popular stories of man eating ways and writes his conclusions for Recreation.

First he tried running down the stories told in newspapers and magazines. Filled in this effort, he turned to the Indians. They knew the gray wolf, having wintered and summered with him. Had they ever known of an Indian being killed by one? None, but Mingan was very crafty and very much to be dreaded.

Quite so. But, once for all, had ever a man been eaten? No, but they had heard—So it would always the same intangible, unconfirmed rumor and the same absence of proof.

"Now for a few facts as to the wolf," writes St. Croix. "He can go eight days without food and can then eat forty pounds of meat at a sitting, say the Indians say. This is a pretty feat for an animal, weighing but eighty pounds. Yet we do not know the length of the sitting.

"The wolf will not venture on glass ice, he never crosses a lake until there is enough snow to hide the ice. To wetting his feet he is as averse as the domestic cat. He will not kill his game until he is killed by one of the ways driving it into some open place for the kill."

"When chasing a deer, he goes at a leisurely jog, sitting down at intervals to never cross the water, and bloodcurdling howls. This drives the poor victim into a wild gallop and soon exhausts it, and as the wolf never tires he is sure sooner or later to catch up with the quarry."

"In winter the deer often makes for some wild rapid, into which it plunges, knowing that the wolf will not follow. To cross the river, however, but better such a death than one by the fangs."

"In summer a couple of wolves will secure all the deer they need by very simple tactics. Having put up the quarry, one wolf drives it by easy stages to some little lake—the lake of the Laurentian country—and on reaching the shore the deer plunges unhesitatingly in, for the instant that it enters the water it will not dare follow. "So on it swims, while the pursuer sits on his haunches and howls continually, no doubt because he sees his dinner at length the forest deer drags itself wearily from the water and shakes the drops from its coat on the sun warmed strand. Then the companion wolf, which has waited its coming, springs at it from the bank and when the first wolf joins him they have a gorge that makes them independent of fate for a while yet."

POINTED PARAGRAPHS.

There is a little wolf and a little rabbit in every man.

One way to be unhappy is to envy the happiness of others.

A lucky man always points with pride to his good judgment.

How many things there are in a grocery store you never will call for.

If you want to oblige a friend, do something for him his way instead of your own way.

A great many people see themselves as others see them, but they don't believe what they see.

Ever occur to you that many of your sorrows are silly sorrows—that the sorrows that are most important are the least?

Education is a great thing, no doubt, but the best housekeepers didn't get their knowledge out of books.—Atlantic Globe.

The Impression He Gave.

His honor Judge Willis, on one occasion going home in an omnibus which landed him at an inn known as the Green Man, as usual passed the time in friendly discourse with the passengers. To one housewife who had been marketing he remarked that, owing to free trade, she was enabled to buy more goods for more than if she lived in a tariff country. To others he talked freely and dispensed counsel and advice indiscriminately. Arrived at his destination, he intimated to the conductor, "I want to get out at the Green Man." Accordingly the omnibus slowed down, but as he was leaving his seat a lady touched him on the sleeve and earnestly inquired, "My good man, don't you think you're hind enough?"—London Tit-Bits.

"Old Hundredth."

"Old Hundredth" has been variously ascribed to Martin Luther, Dr. John Dowland and William Franck. Dr. Lowell Mason wrote quite a treatise on the old tune in 1852, saying emphatically it was written by Gill (the name William Franck in 1543). But later musical historians and antiquarians who have investigated more closely say it was composed by Louis Bourgeois, born about 1540 and died about 1625—some say in the massacre of St. Bartholomew, in 1574.—Musical Million.

Time's Changes.

"You," said she as she came down the stairs leisurely pulling on her gloves—"you used to say I was worth my weight in gold."

"Well, what if I did?" he asked, looking at his watch for the third time in fifteen minutes.

"And now you don't think I'm worth a wait of two minutes."

They Go Together.

"Any rattles? Any rags?" "Queer combination you deal in, my friend."

"Not so queer. People as has bottles generally has rags."—Washington Herald.

"Put A Little SUNSHINE in Your Home"

Football in Shakespeare's Time. Did William Shakespeare ever look on at a game of football or join in one? asks the Herald of Stratford-on-Avon. J. E. Vincent, the author of a book on Berkshire highways and byways, found at North Moreton in the register there an entry of a murder done by one "Ould Gunter," says the Herald. "Ould Gunter," it seems, was a football player, or, at any rate, his sons were players, for they and some fellow names (whose names fell together by the years came to football. Ould Gunter drew his dagger and broke both their heads, and they died both within a fortnight after." Strange old news. There was head blood over football "no meeter for laming than making alle the players thereof."

One Way to Trap a Bear.

The ways of trapping bear are numerous, but there is one old fashioned way that amuses many. It is the system of getting a molasses barrel and driving spikes around through the outside near the open end with the points of the spikes protruding downward toward the bottom on the inside. A bear will force his head into the barrel in the center of the circular row of spikes and eat all the molasses he can find, but when he comes to pull his head out the points of the spikes catch in the fur and skin of the neck and head and cannot get rid of it. The barrel prevents his seeing. He is helpless and sure to go rattled to soon as the situation dawns upon him.—Duluth News-Tribune.

THE MOON'S VOLCANOES.

Causes of the Gigantic Craters' and Great Fissure Eruptions.

It is evident to any one who glances upward at the moon that its volcanoes are on an immensely larger scale than those which stud our globe. One explanation, now abandoned, is that the force of gravitation being there only one-sixth that of the earth the matter expelled from a crater would be spread far more widely, and eruptions would be generally on a far more magnificent scale. Professor Pickering quotes this theory only to refute it in some particulars which he made between the great volcanic region of Hawaii and one of the smaller craters of the moon. The facts seem to him to be that the larger craters on the moon came into existence when the thin, solid crust covering the molten interior was, owing to the solidification and contraction of the crust, upon too small to contain the liquid material. The craters were therefore formed by the lava bursting through the crust and so relieving the pressure. Later, after this relief had been found and the crust had cooled, the interior regions were again by shrink away from the walls, which were now too large and, being insufficiently supported, caved in, permitting the great fissure eruptions which revolution of the so-called lunar seas. These extensive outflows of lava dissolved the original solid shell which ever they came into contact with it much as they do in the present day in Hawaii. That the moon has had smaller than eruptions might not have occurred at all, and if the moon had been much larger their relative size would have been greater. Most probably on the earth similar outflows were greater, and our original gigantic craters were destroyed by the outflow of the earlier archaic rocks, which completely submerged and dissolved them.—London Post.

IF WATER NEVER FROZE.

There Would Be Several Startling Changes in the World.

The whole economy of nature would undergo a startling change if water never froze. The world's climates would be revolutionized. The leeward polar seas would cease to exercise their chilling influences, and consequently the currents of the ocean might either cease or be turned aside in different directions. Thus the Gulf stream would seek other shores than those of Britain, and the climate there might be subject to the extremes of heat and cold noticeable in other countries of the same latitude. The leeward rivers of the north, notably those of Russia and Siberia, would be open for navigation, and Russia's activity as a sea power and a commercial nation might alter the whole world of commerce. Canada would become another country altogether. An immense tract of land would be available for cultivating hardy plants, and Greenland might be what its name indicates. The absence of icebergs off the coast of Newfoundland and Iceland would result in much warmer climate in those islands, where now the crops often fail. Ice, too, plays an important part in the economy of nature. Thus, if water never froze, snow, hail and hailstorm would cease. The loosening of soils and the disintegration of rocks by the frost and many other vital effects would be lost—in short, the absence of ice would be on the one hand an incalculable disaster, on the other hand a great boon.—London Globe.

The name of the first man who skated is buried in oblivion. Skating, however, is very ancient. It is mentioned by the Danish historian, Saks Grammatius, in 1134. William Pitt Stephens speaks of it in London in 1810. Figures of skates appear in Olaus Magnus' history, printed in 1555.
