President Castre's Conceit.
Many stories have been told of Clpriano Castro, president of Venezuea, and of his monumental conceit.
During the Russo-Capanese war the fall of Port Arthur was being explained to him.
"Pshaw!" he exclaimed. "With 500 Venezuelans I could have taken it in four dars."

Venerselans I could have taken it in four days. "With a thousand, in one day, your excellency," said the diplomatic representative of a European power.
Castro was so pleased at what was intended to be saream that, it is said, the diplomat succeeded next day in securing satisfaction of a claim that his government had been vainly pressing for years.
