The Northwestern Gas Light and Coke Co. presented a bill for $8.49 for gas used in lamp in the public square. The bill was ordered placed on file.

The Cook County Farmers' Institute which will be held in the village in December made a request for free use of the village hall for their meetings. The request was granted on motion of Trustee Donlea.

Trustee Lageschulte called the attention of the board to the fact that license had not been paid for pool tables and bowling alleys being run in this village. He said he did not think it hardly fair to endorse the saloons at 10 o'clock and on Sunday and permit other places of amusement to remain open without any restriction or license. He thought that a license of $25 per annum would be high enough. President Spinner had a copy of the Oak Park ordinance covering on similar places of amusement which required that they be closed at 11 o'clock p. m. and on Sundays. A license fee of $50 per annum is charged and minors prohibited from frequenting such places. He said that in his opinion these places of amusement should be regulated by the village board.

Trustee Plagge moved that the village attorney be instructed to prepare an ordinance to regulate places of amusement under discussion. On motion of Trustee Dockery the board adjourned.

Officers Were Elected.

At the annual convention of the Harrington Township division of the Cook County Sunday School Association last Sunday in the Salem church here, the Baptist, Methodist, Zion, St. Paul's and United Evangelical churches were represented, no delegates being present this year from Barrington (Center church). The afternoon meeting was fairly well attended and in the evening the church was filled.

The speakers Messrs Hugh Cork and Charles Hauck from the city were very good, and earnest in their ideas for the advancement and increase of Sunday school work. All enjoyed the singing led by Mr. George Meyer of Chicago, and the Young Peoples' Meeting, led by Rev. Gardner was enthusiastic.

Rev. Widner of the Zion church is heading a plan to form a reading and study circle here for Sunday teachers, and a discussion was held at the meeting concerning it.

The following officers were elected for the ensuing year and represent each Protestant church of Barrington: Pres., F. H. Plagge; 1st Vice Pres., Miss Beulah Otis; 2nd Vice Pres., Miss Rose Landwehr; Secretary, E. L. Wilmer; Treas., Miss Lydia Blenhoff.

Pleasant Social Affair.

The reception Tuesday evening at the Methodist church for the Rev. Mrs. O. E. Mattison was a pleasant social affair and the church parlor was filled with those anxious to meet the new pastor and his wife. All demonstrations were represented. A short program was given consisting of readings by Mrs. M. A. Bennett and Miss Districte Bennett, and songs by Misses Emma Pomeroy and Sadie Blocks. Later games for the young people and luncheon for all were in order.

Protect The Country Store

The department of agriculture is taking a factory interest in the prosperity of the farmer. It is teaching him to have better crops, better machinery and better buildings. Now comes Postmaster General Von Meyer hinting that the postoffice department also wants to take the same interest in the farmers. It wants to give them the parcels post, saying it would be fine for the farmer when they are able to order their goods by telephone or postal card it will relieve them of the inconvenience of going to town to obtain the necessities of life.

The country storekeeper strongly objects to this form of benevolence to the farmer. A lower postal rate is promised on their local delivery than from the outside. Does Mr. Von Meyer imagine that cheaper rate will protect country stores from the city mail order? The fatal flaw in Mr. Von Meyer's reasoning is that the farmer needs to be pampered until his way of living are as artificial as the city resident. He is to have the trolley car at his door, the telephone, his mail delivered and his groceries and supplies. Neither the farmers, nor his wife, nor his children, are to feel the need of "going to town". One may well doubt whether the rural resident wants so much attention on the government's part.

The country storekeeper needs as much protection as the farmer, perhaps more. The farmer should be encouraged to deal in the nearest town. The parcels post is an enemy to the rural community life. It will increase the city markets and decrease the natural home markets.

The government's fatherliness could find better objects than the suppression of normal, healthy neighborhood exchange in rural centers.—Chicago Journal.

Lincoln Farm Park.

After forty years of inaction on the part of this nation as a whole, a private citizen—a business man—has at last taken the lead in a movement to honor the memory of Abraham Lincoln in a way worthy of our country. He has rescued the Lincoln Birthplace Farm and Cabin from the hands of those who have exploited them for private gain and has been instrumental in forming The Lincoln Farm Association, composed of citizens of all the states, for making the grounds into a Lincoln National Park—a memorial that shall be a fitting tribute to the high service of the great President.

The plan is simple. It is to restore the old Cabin; to clean and protect the old spring; to lay out the farm as a permanent park; to erect a noble Lincoln monument; and to establish a historical museum on a short to make the Lincoln Park one of the great patriotic memorials of our country.

The funds are being contributed in sums from 25c upward and every contributor is receiving a very handsome Certificate of Honorary Membership in the Association (12 1/2 by 8 inches), without liability to further dues or assessments of any kind. His name is also entered in the Permanent Record to be kept forever in a place of honor at the Park. The amount of the contribution is never made public. It is not the amount but the spirit in which it is given that counts.

Subscriptions for the Lincoln Farm Park will be received at the following stores: John C. Plagge, D. F. Lamey, A. W. Meyer, Jones Pharmacy, Landwehr & Co. and by the Treas. of the W.R. C., Miss Robbie Brookway. Also by the Committee: H. H. Hubbard, Geo. H. Constook, J. C. Whitney, F. A. Lageschulte, Geo. D. Jayne.

Trip to Holy Land.

The Rev. Father E. J. Fox of St. Ann's Catholic church left this week for an extended trip to foreign countries. His destination is the Holy Land and he hopes to hold services Christmas night in Bethlehem, points in southern Europe and Asia will be visited and a return to this country is not planned until towards spring. Father Fox is familiar with European countries, having traveled extensively through them.

During his absence a priest from the monastery at Wauconda Park will supply St. Ann's and the mission church at Crystal Lake.
Father Fox has been pastor of the Catholic church here for two and a half years and has aroused such an interest in improvement that in so short a time a large modern home has been erected and the two churches thoroughly repaired and beautified in an exceptionally artistic manner.

Stott's Amusement Parlor.

The indefatigable yet very small and will probably be met in the next year.
The change in the aspect of Stott's hall is so great that it is hard to realize the place as the former Old Fellows' hall. The walls are plastered with a warm, rich red color finished with a ceiling of delicate canary and the wood work has been stained and polished to harmonize. Potted plants and cut flowers decorated the hall for the opening this week.

Two pool tables of the finest make and quality, each weighing 1800 pounds, and made to order after a careful study by Mr. Stott of the various makes in pool tables, are popular amusements, and a box-ball alley, a new feature here, is another source of fun. Other attractions are ordered and will be placed soon. Fine candies and cigars are also for sale.

Mr. Stott has provided a gathering place for the men and boys that will be interesting and innocent. No ill manners nor roughness is allowed and everything is done to promote a friend, by feeling among the patrons.

One afternoon a week, beginning in about two weeks, the hall will be open for billiard and pool to the guests of Mrs. Stott and card parties may be held there afternoons.

"I will be worthy, I will be worthy." When you have made a vow like that, don't go out and tell anybody about it; your life will show it and by if you keep it, and if you fall, then nobody will know it. So if you have put temptation or overcome a weakness let your friends find it out for themselves; it will do them more good to see it lived than bragged about. Don't hallow about your own goodness.

SUCCESS TALK TO BOYS

The Path is Plain and the Goal is Sure to Those Who Follow the Guideposts.

When a school superintendent in a town of 1000 gets 60 boys, who are bright about the first week of the new term, 50 of them coming from outside districts and paying tuition, and when for many years he has been interested in and educating it boys out of every 100 in his school, it is worth while to know a what that man has to say to boys. Superintendent F. G. Bennett, of the Wauconda school, has these results and for years has taught a high school successful for teaching young men in business, status and high standard of character. Following are a few of the words of gold from his address to boys of the Great Farm Encampment in Scott County.

Boys look forward to more success than ninety-seven percent of them ever attain. Some boys select their calling too early; some not early enough; some boys select work that does not fit them, and others try things that do fit them but they do not like the work. Your success in life is not so valuable as the way that success affects your character. An evil effect may come from success if you are not one gets an over-estimation of himself.

Real success is within the grasp of every earnest, intelligent, honest boy who puts forth effort to attain it. Every one can not acquire the same success as another, nor ought he to do so; all callings must be filled. Hereafter we have had been considering much about success in anything except professional lines. It is very natural and right that the boy should see himself down the future years in a better condition than he now occupies—that he should place before himself an ideal.

Many a good farmer-son has been spoiled to make a poor lawyer or a job-holder or a poor preacher. The ability lies only our educational system, which fits boys only for the professions. The boy gets started into a profession and finds himself unfitted for it, and the result is that he gets out of sympathy with the world and mankind.

After long work I am now getting ideals of sixty-eight days in high school; I got them to write the name of the man whom they wanted to follow as an ideal. A farmer he selected a merchant in the city as his ideal. I asked him, "Why did you select this man? Who was of the personality of the man (because of his bright active and clever) or on account of his business he follows?" On account of his business, I am afraid you made a mistake. You see the attractiveness of the man as he performs his work but you do not see his mistakes and the disadvantages of his business.

Another boy wanted to be a doctor and gave the reason that it was "a pretty good way to make money." He did not consider the long, muddy rides in the midnight hours and the intense pressure put upon the physician in the sick room. He saw him drive out upon bright days on good roads, and thought he would like that kind of a life.

If a boy likes a calling because he believes there is where he can best do something of the world's work, then I would say to him "God speed you, I will help you through college."

Failure is hurtful not so much on account of the failure as for its effect on one's character; a man would better fail honestly than to succeed dishonestly. Health is a great factor in success. Young men are building reputations, and every day they walk around with bodies and faces betraying this mind. You can't get ahead if you spend your income. Success comes by hard knocks and sticking to it. We should live by system and learn to save.
