

BARRINGTON REVIEW.

VOL. 23, NO. 11.

BARRINGTON, ILLINOIS, FRIDAY, MAY 24, 1907

$1.50 A YEAR IN ADVANCE.

JUST 130 YEARS AGO

The 14th of June is the 130th Anniversary of the Birth of the Stars and Stripes.

Flag of the free hearts hope and honor. By angel hands to valor give. They never have it in the wrong. And all thy hues were born in heaven. Forever float that standard free. Where breathe the free winds from the West. With Freedom's bill beavertail feet. And Freedom's banner stars sit over us.

Proclamation issued by W. L. Goswami, national patriotic instructor of the U. S. A. "Friday, the 14th of June, will be the one hundred thirtieth anniversary of the birth of the flag of the United States. The flag was designed for a nation of thirteen colonies stretched like a belt along the Atlantic coast, made up of less than three million people without common traditions or language; drawn together only by common danger from savages within and opposition without; which tolerated their existence and liberties. That flag now waves over a great nation, extending from the Gulf of Mexico to the Lakes from the Atlantic to beyond the Pacific sea and inhabited by nearly thirty million of people, who speak a common language."

Your flag is now, in form, the oldest of civilized nations. The resolution by congress for the adoption of the Stars and Stripes, on June 14, 1777, was as follows: "Resolved, That the flag of the United States be thirteen stripes, alternately red and white, that the Union be thirteen stars, white in blue field, representing a new constellation. The design of this flag is credited to George Washington, and in part was taken from his family coat of arms. Such is the origin of a flag dedicated to the proposition that all men are created equal. Let us honor the natal day of our nation, by disseminating it from our public buildings, schools and homes in recognition of its memorial day."

The men of the Grand Army of the Republic, who preserved the Nation in the greatest war of modern times and made vital the declaration of our fathers, call upon all who live under the flag to recognize this day with patriotic observances. In schools and on Sunday preceding—in churches. This is the end we suggest for the governor of every state, by proclamation, announce the day and promote its recognition; that the press scatter this call as seeds of patriotism—broadcast all lands. Such recognition will nourish the feeling of nation, inculcate noble citizenship, be the object lesson of civil liberty and be an appeal to the new generations that have come upon the stage since the civil war."

Show Under Difficulties.

The show Wednesday evening was given under such difficulties that no judgment can be passed on the success. It was a well planned affair, and the delay in arrival of part of the properties all discouraged the performers. Given under most favorable conditions the show would have many good features. The people running it are above the ordinary class who travel with small shows, and are educated people of more refinement than generally are in the business. The circus has only been on the road one week and has been hindered from getting fairly started by bad weather. Musicians failed to appear and Elmer Geske and Wallace Hill were engaged for the evening to assist the band. Mr. and Mrs. LaFollet are the owners of the show and Barrington will take a little added interest in knowing that Miss Grace Young, daughter of William Young, who left Barrington a few days ago to enter the military and citizens life, received her training from these people and traveled with them in stage companies and Ringling Bros. circuses until lately. She is now acting in a Chicago musical hall.

A Child's Letter.

The following letter is from Crystal Fitter, aged seven years, of Akron, Colorado, to her former teacher, Miss Lillian Harrower of Honey Lake. Miss Harrower calls attention to the excellent spelling, punctuation and composition for a little girl who has attended school one year.

Arkon, Colo., April 12, 1907.

Dear Miss Harrower:—

I think I will write to you and tell you about the steam plow. Floyd, Mildred and I were up in the engine. Mr. Cross was standing on the cable rope when the steam plow started and stumbled all around. Mr. Cross figures so funny. Paps is out assessing now. The fellow's name that ran the steam plow was Jimmy. I have a swing in the cow manger. Hazel said she was going to milk four cows this morning. Do not let any on see the pieces. How is your father? Have you got your father's letter? We have thirty two little chickens. Mrs. Beckman sent out to us an Arbor day book that had a piece about Pussy willow. We have two little calves. We have ten pictures of the steam plow. It is ten minutes to two o'clock. I think I will close with one kiss.

From your little friend,
Crystal V. Fitter.

Church Notice.

All are invited, as well as expected, to attend the union memorial service at the M. W. A. church.

Let us figure on your job printing.

Special Features Decoration Day.

"The Round Up" is still the sensation of Chicago although most of the "summer shows" have got into place and are doing business. The big western melodrama has all the qualities that delight audiences. Its comedy is clean, crisp and delicious; its pathos is of the sort which brings the lump into your throat and tears into your eyes without harrowing the emotions too strongly, and the thrills, and the play is full of them, are of the sort that make you sit on the edge of your chair and hold your breath. They perhaps more than any other of its drawing features have made the melodrama the great success it is.

Special features are to be added to the performances Decoration Day, Thursday, May 30, matinee and night. The program "sacks" have been especially designed for the day and contain the words of the national anthem as well as certain information concerning the play. At the close of the famous third act, the battle in the canyon, the soldiers will line up in front of the stage and they with the audience will sing "America," the inspiring words and music of which classic and national song will bring true traditions of the day. The thorough American character of the play makes it an idea for national holidays.

The canyon battle scene is the most splendid representation of war that has been staged in America. It surpasses in realism the wonderful battle of Jacob Litt's "Sherandoleh," the reveal of which during the tenure of McVicker's theatre. That scene was as follows: "Resolved, That the flag of the United States be thirteen stripes, alternately red and white, that the Union be thirteen stars, white in blue field, representing a new constellation. The design of this flag is credited to George Washington, and in part was taken from his family coat of arms. Such is the origin of a flag dedicated to the proposition that all men are created equal. Let us honor the natal day of our nation, by disseminating it from our public buildings, schools and homes in recognition of its memorial day."

Struck by Engine.

Saturday night about eleven o'clock an accident occurred in the North Western yards near the Bowman Dairy Company's plant which cost the life of Frank Boylan, Janesville, Wisconsin. Boylan was a brakeman on a freight train which was switching in the yards and while adjusting a switch was struck by an engine which was backing up and hidden from his view as it approached him. One leg was badly crushed and the other broken in several places. The company's physician took him to a Chicago hospital at once, but he did not survive necessary operations and died between seven and eight o'clock Sunday morning.

A SOLDIER'S GRAVE

BY FRANK H. SWEET

Copyright 1907 by FRANK H. SWEET

THE dust that sleeps, unthinking and unknowing,
This turf below.
That recks no more of pale December's snowing,
Or long-drawn June amid the meadows glowing,
That knows not summer's birth nor winter's going,
On field or bough,
Was once a soldier's heart. It ceased its beating
In duty's round,
We o'er the heedless sod, today, are meeting,
To learn the lesson hid in its green keeping,
And give all patriot souls that sleep our greeting,
From this poor mound.

Mr. Henry Nordmeier of Barrington visited at Henry Seip's last Friday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Ernest and Mrs. Edward Wichman of Barrington were visitors at the Ernst home this week.

Mrs. Westlinger who lives near the lake is ill. Her daughter, Mrs. L. Dixon is staying with her at present.

From last reports of Emma Schaefer who is ill in Joliet, we are glad to hear that she is on the improvement list.
