We make our customers advertise us by giving them first class photographs. Kramer, Palatine. Roy Collins substituted Wednesday at the White school north of town for Miss Alta Powers, the teacher, who was ill.

Masquerade, January 24th, Friday evening, in the village hall, under the management of the ladies of the Royal Neighbors lodge. Mrs. Lina Lines and daughter, Halle, went to Detroit Saturday to visit Mrs. Lines' sister. They came home Monday night.

Mrs. T. B. Peckham who lives north of town was called to Milton Junction, Wisconsin, Tuesday by the illness of Mr. Peckham's parents. The Olympic club house on the Lamey lot was offered for sale at auction Wednesday morning. The property was bid in for $250 by Plagge & Company, the owners.

Misses Irene and Harriet Tilly of Oregon, Wisconsin, returned to their home Saturday after a week's visit with Miss Edna Walters. Mr. Farr, assistant County superintendent of schools, spent several hours with the teachers Wednesday, and as usual left many helpful suggestions.

The Long Grove Social club will give a mask ball in Union hall, Saturday, January 18th. Dance tickets, seventy-five cents. Myer's orchestra. Misses Anna and Emma John went to Arlington Heights Monday night to attend a Woodmen entertainment as guests of their cousin, Richard John.

Washington's birthday, Memorial Day and the Fourth of July all fall on Saturday this year, giving the public three occasions for two days, in season, of leisure. John Knollmiller, day operator at the Northwestern depot here, has been transferred to Lakeshore Junction, Wisconsin. Day telegraph service is now handled by Albert Ullrich.

Don't forget the fine masquerade dances, Friday evening, January 24th, in the village hall. The Royal Neighbors lodge is planning to make this as fine a party as was ever given here. George Meier, son of H. S. Meier, returned Saturday night from Atlanta, Idaho, where he has been working as a mining engineer for several years. He expects to remain in this vicinity until April.

Miss Halle Lines had a little party for girls in honor of her sixth birthday Tuesday evening at the Commercial Hotel. Guests at the hotel joined in the games and a good time was had by them all.

Mr. George Hager was called to Rockefeller Tuesday by the condition of his mother, Mrs. Mary Kublank. Mrs. Kublank has suffered from paralysis for the past two years and is now very low.

Services will be held at the Methodist church Sunday at the regular hours, 10:30 a. m. and 7:30 p. m. The subject of the morning sermon will be "A New Vision" and of the evening "Jesus at the Baptism of John."

Mrs. P. Packelman gave a tea for the Thursday club this week. The study hour was arranged by Miss Cora Hilly from the Commercial recent number. The guests invited by the hostess were Mrs. G. Knaggs, Mrs. C. Lytle and Mrs. C. Hutchinson.

Margaret Schendorf, Frances Delm and Ralph Church attended the lecture given by Mr. Willie Brown at the Association building, Chicago, Saturday morning and in the afternoon, in company with Misses Cudahy and Hodgkins, visited the Art Institute and Public Library.

The second meeting in the Salem church conducted by Rudolph Kump, was cancelled on account of last Friday evening and while the attendance was not as large as on Thursday it was nevertheless a profitable gathering. Mr. Drew, an evangelist from the Moody Church in Chicago, was present and spoke on "Salvation of the Soul."

TO SAVE LA BAHIA MISSION. Movement on Foot For State to Buy Historic Texas Building. The ancient La Bahia mission building, situated near Goliad, Tex., is to be sold and preserved if the movement succeeds which has been started among patriotic Texans who are convinced in view, says the Kansas City Star, in this ancient building on May 7, 1836, 200 men under command of Colonel Fannin were massacred by a large force of Mexicans at Santa Anna's orders. The walls of the building were stained with the blood of the men who were striving to gain their country's liberty from Mexico. The news of this massacre aroused the Texans and gave them the frozen courage which soon afterward resulted in the overwhelming defeat of Santa Anna's army and capture of the Mexican commander, whose life was saved only through the timely interference of General San Houston.

In all the years that have passed since that massacre, during the period that Texas was a republic and since she became a state, the historic edifice has remained unscathed except for such little attention as was shown it by the few poor but devout Mexican worshippers who gathered at its altar on Sundays and the various "salute" days.

The movement now on foot seeks to have the state purchase La Bahia mission from those who claim title to it and to permit it to be cared for by the Daughters of the Texas Republic, as the historic Alamo building now is. Owing to its remote location comparatively few people visit La Bahia mission. Those who enter the building first must pay a fee to the Mexican who is in charge of the place. The interior of the mission edifice is much the same as it was when the massacre left the walls bespattered with blood more than seventy years ago.

A Difficult Art. There was a good story told of Dr. Joachim when he was in Hanover. During the winter there was a great deal of skating going on, of which he had a good view from his window. It looked so so good and every one seemed so happy that he thought he would have a try. Accordingly he strolled down and was soon pointed upon by the ice cleaner, who asked him if he wished to skate. "I have never tried yet," Joachim replied. "I will show you, Herr Hofmeister," the man said, screwing on a pair of skates. "So! Now stand up. Now slide the right foot so and the other so, and then off!" Joachim slid his right foot and prepared for the left, but before he had righted himself he was indeed "off" and spinning on his back. "The man," he exclaimed, as he raised the famous violinist. "It is not quite so easy as it looks to the glib."
