

NOTED EVANGELIST TO ASSIST IN REVIVALS

Mrs. Emma Divan, of Redick, Arrived here Tuesday Evening, She Will Remain Two Weeks to Assist the Pastor of the Salem Church in Revival Services Now Being Held.

Mrs. Emma Divan, an evangelist, wife of Rev. Isaac Divan of Redick, Illinois, arrived here on Tuesday evening, January 17th, and expects to remain about two weeks to assist the pastor of the Salem church, Rev. A. Haebele in the revival services being held. Mrs. Divan is a public speaker of more than ordinary talent. She has been in years past an organizer and speaker of the W. C. T. U. and is well known in the western and central part of our state. She is at present the president of the Woman's Missionary society of the Illinois conference of the United Evangelical Church. Her sermons are eloquent and convincing. A deep earnestness and sincerity manifest themselves in her addresses and her pleasant appearance while speaking makes her an attractive talker. The attendance at the meetings held so far this week has been very good and if the weather permits, a crowded church is expected at each meeting. Everybody is welcome. The services are in English and will no doubt accomplish much good. Come and see for yourself. Song services begin at half past seven. Services each evening except Saturday.

Rank Foolishness.

"When attacked by a cough or a cold, or when your throat sore, it is rank foolishness to take any other medicine than Dr. King's New Discovery," says C. O. Eldridge, M.D., Empress, Georgia. "I have used New Discovery seven years and know it is the best remedy on earth for coughs and colds, croup, and all throat and lung troubles. My children are subject to croup, but New Discovery quickly cures every attack." Known the world over as the King of throat and lung remedies. Sold under guarantee at Barrington Pharmacy, 59c and $1.00. Trial bottle free.

A Wild Metaphor.

The wild metaphor has for years been considered what is technically known as a peach, but long ago an emigrant Henry Clay, contestant for electoral honors in the University of Michigan, sprung one so much more rapid in the metaphor race than its rival that it may be said to win in a walk. Rising up on his tiptoes and swelling out his chest like a pouter pigeon, the young orator exclaimed as though he would his words might go smothering down the ages. "The star of empire, tripping with light foot steps across this Atlantic, poles on her outspread pinions in the air and then pitches—and let us hope it may be forever—her nest above the dome of the capitol at Washington."

In the fourteenth century spectacles were used frequently by the very wealthy and dignitary, although they were so scarce that they were bestowed in wills with the elaborate care that marked the disposition of a feudal estate. The first spectacles were made in Italy. A ship, the Ada Inedite, caught fire some years ago in the south Pacific ocean and after the loss of the crew and cargo was abandoned. The wreck, still burning, was picked up near Tahiti, 2,550 miles away, and towed into port. It continued smoldering for ten months.

HISTORICAL SOCIETY

Interesting Program Prepared for Meetings to Occur on Jan. 30 and 31.

LINCOLN AND DOUGLAS DEBATES

Semi-Centennial of These Historic Events Will Be Celebrated by Special Meetings of the Illinois Society.

Springfield, Ill., Jan. 31.—The Illinois State Historical society will hold its ninth annual meeting in the senate chamber in the statehouse at Springfield Thursday and Friday, Jan. 30 and 31.

This being the semi-centennial of the Lincoln-Douglas debates of 1858 the Historical society will celebrate this historic anniversary by a special meeting in each of the towns where the original debates occurred on the anniversary of the debate, at the same hour of the day and, as nearly as possible, on the spot where the original debates occurred. These celebrations will be local, but the Historical society has appointed a committee with local chairman, of which Colonel Clark E. Carr, of Galesburg, is the general chairman. Colonel Carr has visited Ottawa, Freeport, Charleston, Jonesboro, Galesburg, Alton and Quincy, the seven towns where the debates occurred, and the local committees are now making preparations. At the annual meeting of the Historical society, Colonel Carr will report the progress of the arrangements for the celebration of the semi-centennial of the debates and will explain fully the plans of the Historical society and the local committee. Attempts will be made at the local meetings to mark the sites where this has not already been done.

Will Publish Debates. A special volume will be issued by the library commemorating the semi-centennial of the Lincoln-Douglas debates. This will consist of the debates themselves, historical material explanatory of the times, of the two great contestants, and of reprints of interesting documents relating to the debates and the times, photographs and maps illustrative of the subject matter. The book will be handsomely printed and bound, and a very large edition will be printed. The book will be edited by Dr. Edwin Eric Sparks and the editor hopes to have it ready for distribution in a very short time.

At these debates marked the entrance of Illinois into the field of national politics as an important factor. The Historical society will have an address on Abraham Lincoln and Stephen A. Douglas. At its annual meeting this month the address on Lincoln will be given by Mr. Horace White, of New York, who is a correspondent of the Chicago Tribune reported the debates in 1828. Mr. White was the correspondent and the late Hon. R. R. Hill, long a member of congress from Illinois, was the shorthand reporter who took down the debates. Mr. White will come on from New York to address the society.

The address on Douglas will be delivered by former Vice President A. R. Stevenson, of Bloomington. So much has been written about Lincoln and comparatively so little about Douglas that General Stevenson's address is expected to be of great interest.

Program for Meeting.

There are several other speakers who will give addresses at the meeting, among whom are Hon. Henry Barrett Chamberlain, of the Chicago Record-Herald, who will tell of the life and career of Elias Kent Kane, one of the most notable of Lincoln's early associates, of whom the people of the state seem to have lost sight. Mr. W. T. Davidson, of Lewiston, one of the early settlers of the state, will speak on famous men of the Military Trail. The program of the sessions is as follows:

Thursday morning, Jan. 30 (Business meeting, officers report; committee reports; election of officers; minutes; business; memorial; report; memorial; McCullough, of Peoria, director in the Historical society, Mr. 32nd Col. of the 69th.

Thursday afternoon: "Elias Kent Kane," by Mr. Henry Barrett Chamberlain of the Chicago Record-Herald; "Early Literature and Literary People of Illinois," Mrs. E. R. Johnson, Springfield; "Famous Men of the Military Trail," William T. Davidson, Lewiston.

Thursday evening: "Abraham Lincoln and the Battle of 1837," Horace White, of New York City.

Friday morning: "Illinois College and Early Movement in Illinois," President Charles Rammelskamp, Illinois College, Jacksonville; "Early North Shore," Seymour Curry, president, Evanston Historical society; "Early Settlers in Illinois," N. N. Cronholm, Chicago.

Friday afternoon: "Writings of James Hall as Material for Western History," E. R. Green, Fall River, Ill.; "Early Railroads of Illinois," Northern Cross Railroad, R. H. McCormick, Winnetka, Ill.; "Western Indian Battle Sites," Captain J. H. Burton, Bloomington; "Chicago as It Was and Is," Edwin O. Gale, Chicago.

Friday evening: "Stephen A. Douglas," Adlai Stevenson, Bloomington.

Work of Historical Library.

Illinois is behind neighboring states in its care of its Historical society, but the members of the general assembly have almost without exception been favorable to the society and its plans. In 1850 the Illinois State Historical library was organized by act of the general assembly. On Nov. 22 of that year the library was organized. The secretary of state under the provisions of the law organizing the Historical library turned over to the trustees of the new library 412 books and pamphlets. These were the nucleus of the collection which is today the Illinois State Historical library. The library now owns not only twenty thousand books and pamphlets, and has some most interesting manuscripts. The secretary of the Historical society, Mrs. Jessie Palmer Weber, is the librarian. Under the law making the Historical society a department of the library the collections of the society are the property of the state and are a part of the Illinois State Historical library. The trustees of the library from its organization began the collection of books, pamphlets, manuscripts and pictures illustrating Illinois or Western history. The late Judge H. W. Beckwith, of Danville, was the first president of the library board and occupied that position until his death except during the term of Governor Alford, during which time Judge Lambert Tree was chairman. To Judge Tree the library owes the existence of a number of rare French books which treat of the earliest white exploration and occupation of the Mississippi valley.

Society Takes Up Work.

In 1890 the Illinois State Historical society was formed. Judge H. W. Beckwith was its first president and Dr. E. D. Green was its first secretary. In 1903 the legislature passed an act making the Illinois State Historical society a department of the Illinois State Historical library, and the library published the transactions of the society and other historical material. The first publication of the Historical society was issued in 1890 and is entitled "A Bibliography of Newspapers Published in the State of Illinois from 1787 to 1890." This volume was edited by Dr. E. J. James, then of the University of Chicago, now president of the University of Illinois. Dr. James is a member of the library board and one of the directors of the Historical society. The volume just mentioned is now out of print, the supply having been exhausted some years ago.

The publications are sent out to members of the society, libraries, schools, public officials and to individuals on request. The publications of the society cover a wide range of subjects. There have been eleven numbers of the publications issued in the regular series, two handsome volumes published by special appropriations for the purpose. These are entitled "Illinois Historical Collections No. 1" of this series was edited by Judge H. W. Beckwith, and was issued in 1900. It treats of the French explorations of the building of Fort Massac, George Rogers Clark's expedition to Kaskaskia and Vincennes, and contains also a number of letters from the Canadian archives, which relate to the Illinois country. A second volume of this series has been issued lately, edited by Mr. C. W. Alvord, of the University of Illinois. It contains a most carefully prepared history of the Illinois colony of Virginia, and a large number of documents relating to that period. These documents have lain idle in the archives of St. Clair

Other Work of Library.

Several circulars and bulletins have also been issued, among which may be mentioned an outline or guide for the study of Illinois history with references. This was prepared by Mrs. Jessie Palmer Weber, assisted by George L. Osborne, the assistant librarian of the library. It is especially fortunate in having a complete file of the Illinois State Register beginning in 1820. This file has been placed in the files of the Illinois State Journal and is also in the library from 1831 to the present, but are the property of the State Printing Company, which has placed them in the library for safe keeping and the convenience of the public. The library owns a file of the Illinois Intelligencer of Vandalia, 1822-1828. It was the gift to the state of Illinois of Edward Coles, second governor of the state.

The library is very rich in Lincolniana. It has several hundred books and pamphlets on Lincoln, several rare manuscripts, and a complete collection of photographs, engravings and other pictures of Mr. Lincoln. The library has a fine set of the laws of the state, a complete set of the Journals of the general assembly, house and senate. It has reports of state officers, state boards and institutions. Its collection of books, registers, tracts is most interesting. In the early days of the state it was the custom for custom collectors or seal-officers to make tours of the west and relate their experiences in letters or journals.

There were many English settlers in the early days of the state, but they were more serious victors as a rule. They came for the purpose of settling on the land and making money. They followed the "land office settlements" in Edwards county, established by Morris Kirkbeck and George Thayer, who had bought the land from the town of Alton and induced many emigrants to settle in Illinois. The services which Morris Kirkbeck rendered to the state can hardly be estimated. Mr. Kirkbeck, perhaps next to Governor Coles, was more influential in preventing the introduction of slaves into Illinois than any other man. It was a strong and vigorous writer and his letters, which were sent broadcast over the state, were not only powerful and convincing. He wrote under the nom de plume of Jonathan Freeman.

The library contains Mr. Kirkbeck's published books of travels, many of which are rare. The library has a collection of early French and English maps, the emigrant's guide, etc., which were so characteristic and which were so necessary to the settlement of the west in the United States, which began after the Revolutionary war.
