THE COUNTRY HIGHWAY

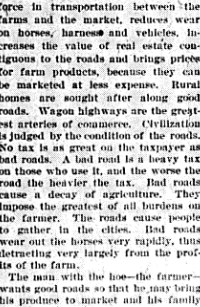

Value of Good Roads and Cost of Poor Ones. What the Farmer Loses

In an address on the improvement of country highways at a good roads convention a speaker said:

The improvement of country roads is chiefly an economical question, relating principally to the waste of effort in hauling over bad roads, the saving in money, time and energy in hauling over good ones, the initial cost of improving roads and the difference in the cost of maintaining good and bad ones.

A good road economizes time and space in transportation between the farms and the market, reduces wear on horses, harness and vehicles, increases the value of real estate contiguous to the roads and brings prices for farm products, because they can be marketed at less expense. Rural homes are sought after along good roads. Wagon highways are the greatest arteries of commerce. Civilization is judged by the condition of the roads. No tax is so great on the taxpayer as bad roads. A bad road is a heavy tax on those who use it, and the worse the road the heavier the tax. Bad roads cause a decay of agriculture. They impose the greatest of all burdens on the farmer. The roads cause people to gather in the cities. Bad roads wear out the horses very rapidly, thus detracting very largely from the profits of the farm.

The man with the hoe—the farmer—wants good roads so that he may bring his produce to market and his family and himself to the neighboring town with less expenditure of time, wear and tear and trouble. In sections of the country where the farmer has good roads he would not lose them for more than their cost and go back to the old system of having to haul through the mud and over the stones. He finds that the value of his property is increased, and he can haul two, three, three times greater loads to market and that he is richer and better because of the good road which connects his property with the neighboring town.

This cost of hauling is a heavy tax on the farmer, much of which could be saved. The amount paid out which could be avoided by good roads is absolutely lost. The farmer is unable to recover it in any way. It is a part of their expense which they must subtract from the gross returns on their crops and their products, and the only way that it can be avoided is by the construction of roads that would enable farmers to haul heavier loads in less time.

Narrow tires and mud roads should speedily be sent hand to hand, and were, "blundering through the dream of things that were."

A Pleasant Party.

Miss Fletcher was pleasantly surprised Friday evening by eight lady friends, the Misses Powers, Dix, Austin, Robertson, Topping and Mesdames W. Shearer, E. Erick and R. Meyer. Progressive club was one of the features of the evening, the first prize was awarded to Mrs. W. Shearer and second to Mrs. E. Erick. A mid-night luncheon was served, followed by vocal and instrumental selections which were enjoyed until a "wee small hour" when the jolly party bid their hostess adieu.

Farm for Sale at Auction.

The undersigned will offer for sale the Ernst Pott farm situated three miles northeast of Lake Zurich, four and one half miles southeast of Wauconda, containing 147 acres, on the premises, Monday, January 27th at 10 o'clock a. m. Good house, new barn, plenty of water and farm well located. I will also offer for sale the same day all my farming outfit, tools hay, grain, cows and other stock, also some household furniture. Wm. Peters, Auctioneer.

Salem Church Revival Services.

The attendance of all the services held has been unusually good.

The interest manifested in the preaching of the Word by Mrs. Emma Divan has been maintained all the week.

The audiences have up to present writing increased in numbers and attention.

Twelve young people have so far professed faith in Christ as their Saviour.

In the sermon on "Sowing and Reaping" one quotation given by the speaker ought to be remembered by all. It was this:

"Sow an act and reap a habit. Sow a habit and reap a character. Sow a character and reap a destiny".

The attendance of many people of our sister churches is highly appreciated.

On Wednesday evening Mrs. Divan preached from the text "Godliness is profitable unto all things, saving the promise of the life that now is and of that, that is to come". "A sad mistake to think of salvation through faith in Christ as some great blessing in some future existence only. The fact is that every burden of life is made lighter and every pure joy made sweeter thereby. It brings happiness and contentment both now and hereafter."

Having been in evangelistic work more or less for a score of years, Mrs. Divan's rich experience and splendid memory help to make the gospel messages both interesting and attractive. In speaking of the fact that "God is not mocked", she gave an incident of her own experience in the northwestern part of the state where a rich but godless and profane man declared on his sickbed that he expected to die with his boots on that "he might kick the bottom out of hell". He recovered from his sickness, went out on a hunt a short time after and in some way his gun was discharged into his body and he was found dead with his boots on. "He not deceived, God is not mocked."

The whole purpose of Mrs. Divan seems to be to show to rational, thinking people the desirability of a joyful life, based on a living faith in Jesus Christ.

The meetings will possibly be continued all of the week.

Ebel-Winkler.

A large wedding took place Wednesday afternoon, January 22nd, on the Peter Beck farm near Langenheim, when at half past two Miss Annie Winkler, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Winkler, was married to Herman Ebel of Spring Lake. The guests numbered about one hundred people.

Rev. Stanger of St. Paul's church, Barrington, was the minister who performed the ceremony.

A wedding supper was served early in the evening that was plentiful and pleasing and the party remained until far into the night, enjoying social amusements.

The newly married young people will reside with Mr. Beck, senior, on the E. Klein farm near Spring Lake. They were both raised in this vicinity and are known as a respectable and capable young couple. Those who were in the bridal party were the two bridesmaids, Miss Emma Winkler a sister, and Miss Martha Wendt of the Kendall farm, Charles Wendt and Theodora Ebel, a brother of the groom.

Besides relatives of Mr. Ebel' from Algonquin, guests from away were: Mr. and Mrs. George Foreman, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Hollister and Mrs. Farms of Barrington; Mr. and Mrs. Henry Kelly of Chicago; Mr. and Mrs. Schroeder and Mrs. Schroeder of Jefferson Park; Mr. and Mrs. Eggert and two daughters of Elgin.

Important Notice.

We wish to call your attention to a downtown Chicago hotel, Hotel Grand, located on one of the finest streets in Chicago, Jackson Blvd, and Clark St, opposite two new postoffices and federal building. C. C. COLLINS, Proprietor.

The study hour of the Thursday club was conducted by Mrs. William Howarth from the "Good Housekeeping" magazine and the meeting was at Mrs. H. K. Brockway's.

How Many Bricks Have You Sent Away?

That sounds like a funny question, addressed to every citizen of this town and community, but it's really a serious one. Listen: There is now just completed a magnificent building of red brick exterior and concrete interior right in the business heart of one of the biggest of American cities. It occupies a whole block and calls itself in a large lettered sign "The Largest Monolithic Building in the World." It has many floors, with about a hundred acres of floor space. The entrances are of solid marble. The floors are beautifully tiled.

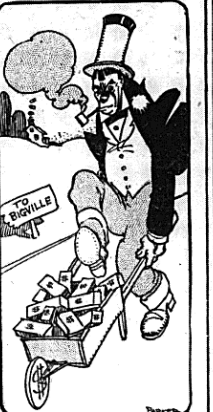

Now, how many bricks have you sent to the city to go into this big building? Honest, how many?

Of the hundreds of thousands of bricks put into the walls of this building the city where it stands has contributed not a single red brick. Country people, the people of small towns and cities far away from the big metropolis, have sent in the bricks for the construction of this splendid edifice.

You may have sent in a few hods of bricks yourself without knowing it. Listen: This magnificent structure, which ornaments a city you probably never will see yourself, is built of bricks bought with the dollars of people living in towns just like ours—towns that would like to have some new brick buildings themselves now and then. Every dollar contributed to the city building fund means a nice, hefty hod of bricks for this big, beautiful skyscraper, "largest in the world" of its kind. This building was put up, through the kind denations of their unknown country cousins, by a firm that ran a small store in that city a few years ago.

But this firm conceived the cute idea of having thousands of strangers contribute bricks to build its fine, large, new store.

And the building is a Mail Order Store. See?

At the Majestic.

At the Majestic Theatre, Chicago, for the week of January 27th, Master Gabriel, the miniature but exuberantly funny comedian will appear in a dramatization of the "Buster Brown" stories under the name of "Auntie's Visit." Master Gabriel was the original "Buster Brown" of the stage and is authorized by the New York Herald, the proprietor of this title to make use of it. This concession was given to him owing to the fact that the Herald regarded his work as most artistic and credible. He brings to life the character so long made famous by Outcault, the noted artist, and the sketch is so well written and so delightfully played that it is considered one of the dramatic hits of recent years. It's success has been astonishing everywhere and indicates that people of all ages are attracted by the extremely funny situations evolved from the "Buster Brown" idea.

George All, the wonderful animal impersonator, assumes the roll of the famous "Tige" and shares the honors of Buster himself. The Orient contributes two valuable features to this remarkable bill, the Okto family of Chinese magicians, and the other Hassan Ben Ali's wonderful performing Arabs. Two other acts are along the always popular line of trained animals, one of them Galletti's monkeys indicates how well the missing link can be trained and the other Ch. Berzac's horse preguets an entire novelty in the training of handsome ponies, several of which do stunts which have never before been seen on any stage.

Don't miss the prize races at full speed on the top of a revolving table, a feat which no man is able to duplicate. In the way of humor the bill promises to be particularly good having not only Carlin and Otto, the Dutch comedians who are known to everybody, but Swor Brothers the burnt cork comedians and Silvers and Siegrist, the famous circus clowns. Mignonette Kokin a dancing and singing southeaster will aid several others in completing a bill which ought to be extremely entertaining.

John Wilson went to Waukesha, Wisconsin, Thursday, to do some surgical work.

WILLIAM NASON

Seldom has the Angel of Death caused such a general wave of sympathy as occurred last Saturday morning, when the news was circulated that Mr. William Nason was dead. It was doubly sad because a daughter was on a sick bed in New Mexico, attended by his wife, where they had but recently gone. He was found Friday morning in bed suffering from a shock of apoplexy. Everything possible was done for him during the day, but all to no avail. The funeral services were held Tuesday afternoon in the M. E. church. Rev. Young gave an address. Burial was beside his son in Hillside cemetery.

William Nason was born in Elk Grove, August 13, 1854 and came to Palatine with his parents when eleven years old. June 27, 1878, he married Sarah O. Peck and to them were born three children, Jessie Rollie and Lea, the former and latter surviving. He was a highly respected gentleman.

QUENTIN'S CORNERS

Miss Mary Smith is spending her mid-winter vacation here at her mother's.

Herman Landwehr was in the city of Chicago last week and purchased a team for farm work.

The younger people around here all seem to be afflicted with a mild case of influenza or grippe.

August Greuer's son is sick with lung fever and is under the care of Dr. Starck of Palatine.

Last Monday Chicago Telephone people were out inspecting wires.

William Stockel, our local blacksmith, was in the great central market on business most last Saturday.

Nicholas Baker is getting in a tubular well on his farm here. Steve Palmer of Barrington is doing the work.

J. G. Bauer gave his friends a party last Saturday night to help wear away the long evenings and for good fellow ship's sake.

William Pahlman gave his friends and neighbors a rousing farewell party last Saturday night. He lived in this neighborhood when a very small lad years ago.

William and Louis Ernsing and their sister, Mrs. Crist Fremont, have gone to Kansas in answer to a sad telegram that their sister, Dora Koch, had departed from this world.

That large axon car plowing in the snow banks was a little bit of season. It took six hours to make the three miles from Lake Zurich to here. This is not knocking the old horse very sadly on the nose.

A Higher Health Level.

"I have reached a higher health level since I began using Dr. King's New Discovery." This is the testimony of West Franklin, Maine. "They keep my stomach, liver and bowels working just right. If these pills disappoint you on trial, money will be refunded at Barrington Pharmacy, etc."
