

To The PUBLIC

It will be of interest to those suffering from defective vision to know that the old reliable specialist,

M. R. MOSES, OPH. D.

established in Chicago for the past 35 years, will make regular visits to BARRINGTON, and can be consulted

Sat., Dec. 15, at Commercial Hotel

His excellent work in this specialty for the past 25 years, will speak for itself, therefore he will not take the usual method of publishing testimonials. Those who are in need of glasses can always depend upon his diagnosis as conscientious. Headache, Dizziness, Nervousness, Pain in the Back of the Head, Floating Spots, and other symptoms usually coming from a deranged system are often caused by defect in vision. Professor Moses can always recognize the difference between constitutional disorders and errors of refraction, and the old saying "An Ounce of Prevention is Worth a Pound of Cure" is surely true in ophthalmology, as often a very slight adjustment in the beginning would have saved an eye from chronic trouble, often resulting in total blindness. Glasses properly fitted at moderate prices. Satisfaction guaranteed.

OUR NATIONAL GUARD

How the Men of the Illinois Force Are Taught to Shoot to Hit.

STATE IS WELL TO THE FRONT

Fine Range at Camp Logan and How It is Used to Perfect Guardsmen in Marksmanship with the Rifle.

Springfield, Ill., Jan. 23.—Representatives of the Illinois National Guard are in Boston, Mass., attending the annual convention of the United Guard Association of the United States.

The delegation consists of the following officers: Major General Thomas W. Scott, adjutant general; Major General Edward C. Young, the division; Brigadier General Jack D. Foster, First brigade; Colonel John R. Marshall, Eighth infantry; Colonel Daniel Mortality, Seventh infantry; Colonel Richenza J. Shaw, Third infantry; Colonel Milton J. Foreman, First cavalry; Colonel Lewis D. Greene, adjutant general, the division; Lieutenant Colonel William F. Lawrie, Sixth infantry; Major Jas. Miles, First infantry; Major John T. Galbraith, Fourth infantry; Captain Henry R. Hill, adjutant Fifth infantry; Captain Ralph B. Holmes, adjutant eighth infantry; Lieutenant Edward O. Phillips, aide-de-camp First brigade.

Teach Guardsmen to Shoot.

The growth and development of the National Guard of Illinois is practically illustrated by the interest that is being shown in the target ranges at which Illinois National Guardsmen are taught to shoot. Henry Barrett Chamberlin, editor of The Voter, of Chicago, describes this training in an article which has just appeared in that publication. It is as follows:

"Illinois stands in the front rank of the states which prescribe practical instruction for their soldiers. To be sure, it lags a long way behind those commonwealths which adequately house, uniform and equip their guardsmen, while at the same time insisting that the work performed shall be of the very best. However, it is moving in the right direction, and the legislature at its last session took one step in advance when it appropriated money for the construction of an armory to be occupied by the Seventh infantry. It is reasonable to believe that this will continue until all the military organizations in the state are provided with armories sufficient for their needs.

"In the matter of rifle firing, however, Illinois has lagged. It has provided a reservation in the extreme northeastern corner of the state known as Camp Logan, and there on the shores of Lake Michigan has established a rifle range. Already an excellent range it promises to be one of the best in the country when the improvements now contemplated are completed. Ample facilities are to be found at Camp Logan for every sort of rifle and revolver practice required by the rules and regulations of the United States Army. The butts are of concrete, affording protection to the men employed to mark the scores, and there are enough targets to enable several hundred men to use their rifles day after day at distances ranging from 250 to 1,000 yards. There is also a range for skunk firing 600 yards in extent.

Practice Lasts Six Months.

"The range practice season is from May 1 to Oct. 31, and each officer and enlisted man is allowed 400 rounds of ammunition during the season for practice and record firing. This ammunition is provided by the United States government, and approximately $200 worth has been fired this year. The government has also about completed a two-story armory building of cement, equipped with rifle racks, magazine and quarters for the custodian. As a matter of fact the government pays more of the cost of maintaining the range than does the state, it being the purpose of the war department to bring the rifle firing among the state troops to the highest possible efficiency.

"Barracks are provided for the officers and men of the First, Second, Seventh and Eighth regiments of infantry, the First cavalry and the Naval Reserve. There is a mess building, Rees hall, named after the late adjutant general of Illinois, Brigadier General Jasper N. Rees; a canteen, an ammunition house and a cottage occupied by the range officer, Captain Weston, Third infantry, Illinois National Guard. The assistant range officer is Lieutenant Carroll M. Gale, First infantry, and in addition there is employed a sufficient number of men to care for the targets and the reservation.

"In teaching the soldier to shoot the practice opens with instruction practical, marksmanship's course. When the instruction practice is completed the soldier proceeds to record practice over the same course, in firing for a record over the marksmanship's course the soldier has a time limit of one minute a shot, the time to be computed from the full appearance of the target from behind the butts until the rifle is discharged. Ten shots are fired at each range. At 200 yards the soldier stands. At 300 yards he has the choice of the kneeling or sitting positions. At 400 and 500 yards he lies prone. When the kneeling slow fire the soldier fires two scores of five shots each at the 200 and 300 yards ranges, rapid fire, being given twenty seconds to fire five shots. This accomplished, he goes to the skirmish range and makes two runs from 50 to 200 yards, firing at six distances—50, 100, 150, 200, 250 and 300 yards at silhouette targets representing men kneeling and lying prone. This completes his marksmanship course. If he averages 40 per cent he is a marksman. An average of 50 per cent classifies him as a first-class man, and an average of 40 per cent classifies him as a second-class man.

May become sharpshooters.

"When the soldier qualifies as a marksman, not before, he is permitted to shoot over the sharpshooter's course. This is a more difficult course, under stricter requirements. Should he accomplish this he is then permitted to try for the highest honor—expert rifleman. The latter test must be that he is able to shoot over every distance from 200 to 1,000 yards, including the skirmish runs, and make a percentage of 68. A man succeeding in this difficult test and securing the silver cross awarded by the state of Illinois for the highest proficiency in rifle firing and making them efficient fighting men it is also the service of every citizen who cares to practice. Any citizen who wishes to enroll as a member of the Illinois State Rifle association, whether he be a member of the National Guard or not, may on payment of a fee of $2 the first year and $1 yearly thereafter, have the same privileges as the guardsmen with the exception of free ammunition. Rifles will be furnished, quarters provided and targets assigned, with men to score. Colonel H. S. Dietrich, general inspector of rifle practice, Illinois National Guard, is in charge of the association, and Captain John V. Clinch, inspector of rifle practice, First Infantry, is the secretary, and will give all desired information to those interested.

May Seek National Honors.

"Members of the association are eligible to membership in the National Marksmanship Reserve, and if they qualify are entitled to wear the National Marksmanship's lapel button and have their names recorded in a roster maintained by Robert Shaw Oliver, assistant secretary of war, president of the national board for the promotion of rifle practice, has announced conditions governing the qualifications, and they have been approved by William H. Taft, secretary of war.

"The opportunity to practice and compete for the button is open to all male citizens of the United States between the ages of eighteen and forty-five. In Illinois the scores are shot at Camp Logan. The ranges are 200, 300 and 500 yards, and there are five shots for record and two sighting shots at each range. The entrance fee is 25 cents for each entry, re-entries being allowed, and when the scores are completed they are sent to Lieutenant Albert S. Jones, secretary of the association, 250 Broadway, New York, who, not later than Dec. 1 of each year, tabulates them and forwards them to the military secretary of the United States Army. Those who qualify receive the lapel button.

"The season at the Camp Logan range closed the last day of October. Between then and its opening next May much will be done to improve the range at the reservation. A system of drainage is being constructed and six cement barracks are to be built. These buildings are for officers and men, lockers, showers and rest-places. Lockers for clothing will be built and there will be sleeping accommodations for more than 100 men in each building. While all of this is primarily for the instruction of the Illinois National Guard members of the Illinois State Rifle association will be cared for and given every opportunity to familiarize themselves with the rifle.

Trained Marksmen for Nation.

"Of course there is an underlying motive for all this. The men who have been charged with the study of the conditions of modern warfare realize that in this country, where military service is voluntary, it is difficult to train men to the use of the rifle at short notice. By encouraging practice with the rifle it is hoped to enroll an army which will be called upon should occasion demand the members of which would at least know which end of the rifle to point at the enemy. To be sure, it is much more difficult to train the coming men of the state enlist in the Illinois National Guard, that they may be trained in all the duties of the soldier as well as be perfect in rifle firing. By following this course they gain the advantage of having their training to and from the range will be by the state, their ammunition furnished, and in addition are provided with uniforms and equipment without expense to themselves. They have the week's camp at Camp Lincoln, near Springfield, Ill., and the use of the armories in the winter months, when the training is less interesting and where, when military duties have been performed, the social and club features are many.

Storthing in Season.

Christians, Jan. 11.—The first session of the Storthing was held here. The sitting was brief and informal as the ceremonial opening by King Haakon in person will not take place until Jan. 30. Mr. Berne was re-elected president and M. Knudsen vice-president of the assembly.

Salem Church Revival Services.

The revival services have continued to the present time with increased interest and results. Up to yesterday twenty-six persons have made a public confession of faith in Christ. It is possible the services will continue another week. It depends on the interest manifested. So far the attendance has been very good. Even the cold weather has made but little difference.

The evangelist, Mrs. Emma Divan, has held the attention from night to night. The pastor Rev. A. Harlow expects some of the Chicago pastors to assist him during the coming week.

The general hearty singing of Gospel songs have added much to the interest of the meetings.

The "Glorious Song" is becoming quite well known and is sung with much spirit.

You have missed a great deal if you have not attended. Come.

It Does The Business.

Mr. E. E. Chamblain, of Clinton, Maine, says of Booklen's Arnica Salve: "It does the business; I have used it for piles and it cured them. I used it for chapped hands and it cured them. Applied it to an old sore and it healed it without leaving a scar behind." Sold at Barrington Pharmacy.

Value of Advertising.

A Kansas man is convinced that advertising pays. He advertised for a lost five dollar bill, and a stranger, who had picked up a five dollar bill on the streets, read the advertisement and returned the bill to the advertiser. A few days later while looking over a vest he had laid off the original lost bill was found in a pocket. He says advertising pays 100 per cent.—Uden Press.

As the result of experiments, it has been found that the groundhull is the fastest of all four footed animals. When going at full gallop it can cover twenty yards a second, or about a mile in a minute, and twenty-eight seconds a speed that comes very near that of a carrier pigeon. One of the sources of income to certain Bureau ornithological governments is the letting of rights to collect edible birds' nests in the northern and southern groups of the Missouri islands, the Tazoy district. These nests command fancy prices and are used in seasoning soups and other dishes.
