CONGRESS GETS SPECIAL MESSAGE FROM PRESIDENT.

APPROVES BODY'S WORK

In Transmitting Report of Inland Commission, Roosevelt Declares Policy Demand System—Roads Scored for Failure.

Washington. — President Roosevelt Wednesday transmitted to congress a special message on the report of the inland waterways commission.

The president's message approved the work of the body from its start and the chief executive went on record as favoring the proposed system of inland waterways, as advocated in the west and by the commission which has spent some time at work on the matter.

Cites inability of Roads. To the Senate and House of Representatives: "I transmit herewith a preliminary report from the inland waterways commission, which was appointed by me last March in response to a widespread interest and demand from the people of the United States and in the general and admitted inability of the railroads to handle properly the traffic of the country, and especially of the country of the west."

"This report is well worth your attention. It is thorough, conservative, sane and just. It represents the mature judgment of a body of men especially qualified to make such a report."

CATHOLIC PRIEST IS SHOT

ASSASSIN'S BULLET KILLS LEO HEINRICHS AT ALTAR.

Quaranteo, a Discontented Italian, Shoots Reverend in Church—Confesses to Police When Taken.

Denver, Col.—Father Leo Heinrichs was shot and killed when administering the sacrament at mass in St. Elizabeth's church, between Curtis and Curtis streets, this city, Sunday, kneeling at the altar rail, between two women, Giuseppe Quaranteo pressed the muzzle of a revolver against the body of the priest, after receiving from him the consecrated water, and shot the priest through the heart. Exclaiming, "My God, My God," Father Leo fell without uttering another word. With an inarticulate scream the assassin sprang into the aisle and, waving the smoking pistol about his head, dashed by the church door. For a moment the hundred or more people in the church were dazed. Then a woman shrieked and the congregation became panic stricken. Some women screamed, and many became hysterical. Several men rushed to the aid of the priest, and others started in pursuit of the assassin. Among the latter was Patrolman Daniel Cronin, who overtook the fleeing Italian on the steps. Quaranteo attempted to shoot the policeman, but was overpowered and overpowered only after a desperate fight in which several men had come to the assistance of the officer.

Although no charge was brought against the murderer of Father Leo was made there was much talk around town throughout the day of the justice of lynching him. In order to avoid an attack on the city jail, Quaranteo was taken to the county jail, where he easily defended himself, where he remained several hours. Small groups of men began to congregate near the county jail, and after a consultation the authorities decided to take Quaranteo out of town. Accordingly he was hustled into an automobile and the car run was made to Littleton, 14 miles from Denver, where a train was boarded for Colorado Springs.

Denver, in a sequel to the murder of Father Leo Heinrichs by Giuseppe Alio, through the efforts of Chief Dolan it is believed that at least 30 anarchists in various parts of the country will be placed under arrest within a few days.

Subject Critically Important. "If the report errs at all it is by over-conservatism. It contains findings or statements of fact, a number of recommendations, and an account of inquiries still in progress, and it is based in part on statistics and other information contained in a voluminous appendix, the subject with which it deals is of critical importance both to the present and the future of our country."

"Our river systems are better adapted to the needs of the people than those of any other country. In extent, distribution, navigability, and ease of use, they stand first. Yet the rivers of our civilized country are so poorly developed, so little used, or play so small a part in the industrial life of the nation as those of the United States. In view of the use made of rivers elsewhere, the failure to use our own is astonishing, and no thoughtful man can believe that it will last. The accompanying report indicates clearly the reasons for it and the way to end it.

"Every stream should be used to the utmost. No stream can be so used unless such conditions as are mentioned above are met. When such plans are made we should find that, instead of interfering, one can often be made to assist the other. Each other's interests, in headwaters in the forest to its mouth on the coast, is a single unit and should be treated as such. Navigation of the lower reaches of a stream cannot be fully developed until the control of floods and low waters by storage and drainage. Navigable channels are directly concerned with the protection of the cities, and with soil erosion which takes the materials for bars and shoals from the richest portions of our farms. The use of water for navigation, for municipal water supply, for power, and in many cases for irrigation, must also be taken into full account.

"The development of our inland waterways will have results far beyond the immediate gain to commerce. Deep channels along the Atlantic and Gulf coasts are of vital importance to the great lakes will have high value for the national defense. The use of water power will measurably relieve the drain upon our diminishing supplies of coal, and transportation by pipe instead of rail only will tend to conserve our iron. Forest protection, without which river improvement cannot be permanent, will at the same time help to postpone the threatened timber famine, and will secure us against the danger of timber being provided for the perpetration of the remaining woodlands. Irrigation will create the means of livelihood for millions of people, and supplies of pure water will be provided for the public health. If the policy of waterway improvement here recommended is carried out, it will affect for good every citizen of the United States. The national government must play the leading part in securing the largest possible use of our waterways; other agencies should assist, but the work is essentially national in its scope."

Rules Against Railroad. Supreme Court Decides the Elkins Act Still Valid.

Washington.—The question whether the railroad rate law known as the Elkins act repeals section one of the Elkins act relating to the railroads, involved in the case of the Great Northern Railway company versus the United States, was decided by the supreme court of the United States against the railroad company and against the contention of such repeal.

The case was instituted in the United States district court for the district of Minnesota, which court fined the railroad $1,000 each for 15 violations of the first section of the Elkins law.

Endorses Ousting Negroes. Senate Sanctions Dismissal of Colored Texas Soldiers.

Washington.—President Roosevelt's action in dismissing a battalion of negro soldiers of the Twenty-fifth Infantry (Tex.) was endorsed by the senate committee on military affairs Tuesday by a vote of 8 to 5. That the shooting in the affair at Brownsville, Tex., on the night of August 13-14, 1906, was done by the negro soldiers of the Twenty-fifth U. S.
