Crime's Prayer Books

Organized society is just now paying unusual attention to the work of antagonizing crime and adds to the development of criminal impulses and instinct. We all know how easy it is to see the mote and overlook the beam. There is a beam, and a good sized growth it is, too, in the magazine and novel stories which treat of crimes and give minute directions as to criminal methods. When the results of crime are depicted in stories and the inevitable moral deduced therefrom the use of crime to give point to a story is not objectionable. But the careful working out of the method of a particular crime merely to make a novel an interesting story is to let loose a flood of moral poison. The mind which can find interest in such stuff is morbid. If young and weak, it is certain to imbibe the poison and pass over all the moral lessons implied.

Parents are careful to keep their children from association with the children of vicious families for fear of the example that might be set by such association. But the story is also a caution, and the fact that it is printed and finds a place in the family reading table gives it a certain warrant in the eyes of youth. There is enough curious and entertaining fiction which is also harmless to keep all the boys and girls amused every leisure hour of their lives. The struggle of a boy or girl in honest endeavor to be the most interesting subject ever taken up by an author. Many years ago the prints were filled with stories of poor boys who made their way to the top in New York, then the one metropolis of the western world. These tales were exciting and elevating. Youth revels in stories of real boyhood, as of Lincoln and Webster, for instance. There is found inspiration for toll and self denial. But the pinch of biography of a successful criminal, whether it treats of fact or fiction, is only a text book for surreptitious schooling in crime.

Holding Up Devil Wagons.

The farmers of some islands wish to continue dwelling there until they can stay on earth as free as possible from the annoyance of the "devil wagon." They propose to make their visit good by a right law to keep machines of the public roads when the roads are wanted for some purpose. The island is not large, the roads are narrow and the market towns so far apart that farmers have to drive a long distance for supplies and mail. Twilight is long up in the Gulf of St. Lawrence, and teams are often on the roads between market and the farm as late as 10 o'clock at night.

The anti-automobile movement in Prince Edward Island is based on the appeal of the farmers for protection. The roads there are good, and the temptation to speeding is great. Nevertheless the farmers help to pay for the highways and do not wish driving into swamps and over rough fields to give right of way to the devil wagons. The auto owners are citizens and taxpayers, too, and perhaps the legislature will divide the apportion between the contestants, limiting speeding antics in the daytime and granting them full swing at night. If some such law is passed and enforced, there will be at least one enlightened community spared the curse of speed maniacs.

The epidemic of bomb throwing calls attention anew to the necessity of suppressing anarchism, but does not simplify the work of the suppressors. Russia, Germany and some of the other old world countries where the later elements have at least a color of excuse for their outbreaks have a summary way of dealing with the offenders, but in a republic like ours the matter is far less simple. Nevertheless the necessity for stamping out this sort of crime is becoming more and more imperative.

Something in the shape of a Carnegie medal seems to be due the man who keeps right on spading his garden after he has dug up a nice lot of fish worms.

WAUCONDA.

Matthew Freund visited his father and sister here the first of the week.

Mr. and Mrs. M. C. Fitzsimons of Woodstock were callers at F. L. Carr's Sunday.

Col. Berry of Chicago spent Sunday at Meadow View, his horse farm north of town.

Mrs. Cornwell and family will move to the Slocum house vacated by H. T. Fuller and family.

Miss May and Lizzie Stilling of Pleasant Bay spent last week with their sister, Mrs. Brown.

The Leipsic Concert company of Lake Geneva had a very fair patronage here Saturday evening.

Mr. R. H. Kimberly returned home the first of the week after a few weeks visit in Indiana and Chicago.

Dr. and Mrs. Galding and little daughter of Libertyville visited friends and relatives here over Sunday.

Miss Eliza Cary, sister of Mrs. Dr. Wells, lies very ill at the home of Dr. Hughes. She suffered a paralytic attack over a week ago.

Mrs. H. T. Fuller and family moved Tuesday to the rooms over the store where they will hereafter reside, and Mr. Fuller will occupy a room in the Coyle building with his brother. It is hoped by his many friends that his health will improve.

A shower at the home of Mr. and Mrs. R. C. Kent in honor of Miss Nina Pratt brought together many of the young lady's friends who spent a few pleasant hours of Friday, April 10th, in social enjoyment. Gifts of china and linen were evidence that all who were present will long remember this joyous occasion.

PALATINE LOCALS.

Henry Schopp has a new auto.

Mrs. George Kuebler and son arrived home this week.

A speed ordinance is being prepared for passage at next meeting of the village board.

W. H. Brockway has his brother here from Wisconsin assisting him in the hardware store.

Work has been started in tearing down the brick work of the new boiler erected last summer at the pumping station. The foundation has settled and a more substantial one is necessary.

John Henry Deverman died suddenly of heart failure and old age Friday afternoon at the age of 85 years and 29 days. He was born in Germany, coming to Chicago in the sixties and his first work here was on the LaSalle street tunnel. He moved to Palatine 40 years ago and died on the same farm he bought at that time. Funeral was held Tuesday afternoon.

Barrington will have the best train service along the line this summer, while now Palatine must be contented with slow locals which stop thirteen times between here and Chicago. Our neighboring town get it because a number of "big ones" have been attracted to their village; while we get it in the neck because our new residents are only the common people.

LAKE ZURICH.

There will be an Easter ball Monday evening, April 21, in Lake Shore pavilion. Music by James O'Connor's orchestra of Chicago.

"I can't decide," she said, "whether to take the hat or not. But it is just the dearest thing I have seen this season."

"The dearest?" asked the husband, with a sardonic laugh. "Then it's certain that you'll take it." - London Telegraph.
