Those Broken Ranks

A Memorial Day Poem by Horton Coadbury Smith.

Copyright, 1908, by Marie C. Smith.
A LONG the vistas of the past We view the marching
We thrill to drum
and bugle blast,
To parting tears and smiles,
The signs of many a long farewell

Sounds in our dreaming ears,
Aid, hark, the battle thunders swell
Across the gulf of years!

How strange, how swift, the after days Spring after spring pass by Voices of sorrow and of praise
In lessening murmur die;
The ranks are thinned, their work long done!

The stately heads grown white,
And brave old comrades one by one Pass out beyond our sight.

AND MARK THE BATTLE THUNDERS SWELL!
New hopes, new triumphs, projects
wide,
Have filled the nation's heart,
Strong men, once children at our side,
Now fill their destined part,
But still they trace those broken ranks—
Life share with spirits dear
The incomes of a people's thanks
Updating year by year.

Alas, how soon those passing hosts Will vanish from our Thoughts, for
Of men, of Yet from the past,
with glory
fraught,
Their praises still shall ring
And tribute to their graves
be brought In lavish bloom of spring.

Fired First and Last Shot.

It is a fact not generally known that the man who fired the first shot in the civil war killed himself with another shot not long after the close of the conflict. Edmund Ruffin, who opened the bombardment of Fort Sumter by firing the first cannon shot, owned a large plantation on the James river, with many slaves. He was an old man, but intensely loyal to the south. By the fortunes of war his estate was ruined. So disappointed and humiliated was Ruffin by the failure of the southern cause that on the 17th of June, 1865, at Amelia Court House, Va., the old man loaded a musket and killed himself.

The German play at the school house Monday evening, June 1st, will be funny and interesting from the first, admission 35c, proceeds to aid to the equipment for the German department.

Where Local Option Helps.

Local option is certainly proving a good thing to Woodstock. We understand that several hundred round trip tickets for a Harvard were purchased Saturday evening. It is convenient to carry out cases of these emergency trips that Woodstock merchants can supply them guaranteed to carry twelve quarts.—Woodstock Sentinel.

By ROBERTUS LOVE

Copyright, 1908, by Robertus Love

Not in ships forged of steel
All the batteries of Mobile Did he dare,
Yet the glory of his fight
Sentillates enduring light
On the air,
With a far shining flame
To illuminate his name.
In Madison Square, New York.

Of Farragut the brave
Let us send a ringing bravo
Down the past,
When the fortress cannon crashed
And the admiral was lashed
To the mast,
When the shells shrieked and broke
On the Hartford's hull of oak.
