THE ARMY'S NEW CHIEF

THE ARMY'S NEW CHIEF
Few officers have had such a distinguised military career as has General Doug-las MacArthur, who has just become chief of staff of the United States Army at the age of 50, the youngest ever to hold this highest rank.

50, the youngest ever to hold this highest rank.

Since he was graduated from West Point at the head of his class in 1903, he has held many important commands, and reached the rank of major general a few days before he was 45. As a first lieutenant he was military aids to President Roosevelt.

During the World war he served as chief of staff, brigade commander and finally as commanding general of the famous Rainbow Division, with which he took part in the St. Millel, Meuse-Argonne, and Sedan offensives, as well as other major operations, being wounded in action twice.

After the war he served successively as superintenden of the Millitary Academy at West Point, commander of the Philippines and wiston, For his war services he received meanington. For his war services he received meaning to the proper to the proposed meaning to the property of the property of the Philippines and has been president of the American Olympic Commission.

For his war services he received many merican and foreign decorations, including

American and foreign decorations, including the distinguished service medal. The new chief of staff is the son of the late Lieutenant-General Arthur MacArthur, who also had a notable Army career, having been a brevet colonel in the Civil war before is was 20 years old, later serving in the Spanish-American war and during the Philip-pine Insurrection.
