Greening is Oldest Apple Grown in New York State

The Rhode Island Greening is probably the oldest of the varieties of crabapple grown in New York state. J. T. Brezger of the state college of agriculture. The original tree, a seedling, stood in a tavern yard near Newport, R. I., about 1700. The tree was owned by Mr. Greene and the apple so named because Philip Halls called it the "Boston Greening". "As snakes were fond of eggs," he says, "it was considered disrespectful to leave an empty shell and so disappointed the family snake." All other well-informed people have known that the shell should be crushed so that snakes cannot sail in it, nor can they draw or prick on it the name of the person they wish to injure.

Spends Winters on Open Sea

The Kittiwake, a beautiful white and blue-pearl gull inhabiting the rocky coasts of the North Atlantic although one of the most gentle and fragile of creatures, spends its winter on the open sea, buffeted by the roughest gales and exposed to the full force of the savage Atlantic weather.

Sixteen Tons of Bar Iron in Largest Set of Gates

The largest set of ornamental wrought-iron gates in the world is at Forest Lawn Memorial park, Los Angeles. Measuring 25 feet in width, they are 5 feet higher and twice as wide as the famous gates at Buckingham palace, London.

Feed Him Flatly

Wives make the mistake of not flatting their husbands. You should never datter to a husband in as large portions as you serve food to a growing boy.—E. C.

Magna Charta Reminder

The association known as the Society of the Daughters of the Barons of Runnymede was organized in 1915 and Robert Peggy Hogan of Cantonville, Md., who conceived the idea of an organization for women similar to a men's organization, the Barons of Runnymede, which was organized but undeveloped on account of our entry into the World war.

HOW much should a funeral cost?

A funeral cost may be as much or as little as the desire and the financial circumstances of the family warrant. In our display room we offer a wide choice of caskets, each representing full value for the price. And the same choice of caskets is available for our service—reverence and reliability are the same for all regardless of cost.
