OUR WASHINGTON LETTER

DEFINITE PROSPECTS of a 25 per cent cut in appropriations for government activities has rightfully secured hundreds of thousands of federal employees. The demonstrators of the senate, determined to meet one of the mandates of the recent election, have decided to bring about this annual economy. Talk in official quarters centers on the probable political effect of such drastic measures. It is contended a revision upward of income taxes affecting the rank and file of citizens may be avoided by thrift. On the other hand, the political machinery will suffer for the democrats will have their astronomical problem complicated by the inevitable loss of jobs which follows curtailment of federal expenditures. It is not likely that the program will be accomplished overnight. The congress has until June 30 to handle the matters of the next fiscal year. And powerful lobby groups are on the war-path to resume jobs and projects.

State News

Edward L. Ryerson Jr., chairman of Illinois Emergency Relief commission, was in Springfield recently to furnish members of the general assembly with information regarding relief needs of Illinois. Mr. Ryerson stated, "There is a very definite and vital need that the state of Illinois make immediately available for relief purposes. Since last August, the Illinois Emergency Relief commission has been furnishing relief through funds advanced by the Reconstruction Finance corporation. The corporation has repeatedly indicated that Illinois must do something definite in making local funds available for relief purposes. A definite step has been taken in this direction through the introduction of the two per cent general sales tax. The state of Illinois cannot wait for the needs of the thousands of families which are dependent for the necessities of life upon our relief agencies, and a simple matter of humanity, it must make further funds available for the care of those people by the passage of this legislation."

ASKING RURAL AID

City political and financial leaders with the assistance of the metropolitan press are making a concerted effort to unload part of their poor relief expenses onto the rural and country town districts. This is true in every state in the union and particularly so in Illinois, New York and other states in which are located very large cities.

THE FOLKS BACK HOME are considering how the change of political control in their locality. It has been stated privately in reliable democratic circles that the new administration to those "who beat the drum." This means that local party workers and post-election conferences will grab the plum from the patronage tree. The jobs which will be available under the two new administrations to the state will be divided into two categories: those which will be denied the opposite party and those which will go to those "who beat the drum." This means that local party workers and post-election conferences will grab the plum from the patronage tree. The jobs which will be available under the two new administrations to the state will be divided into two categories: those which will be denied the opposite party and those which will go to those "who beat the drum."

A similar but much less extensive system of raising and distributing poor funds previously existed. Part of the counties' share of property taxes went into "pauper" funds and were distributed by the county boards. Lake county was a fair example of the operation of this system. Property owners in the townships of Ela, Cuba, Wauconda, etc., paid into the pauper fund at the same tax rate that Waukegan property owners paid. Only a small percentage of the funds received from these rural townships returned to the townships for the reason that unemployment was low in the rural territory and high in Waukegan. The Finn Pauper act, recently described by the Waukegan News-Sun as "clumsy" corrected this situation. Since that act became effective, poor funds have been raised within the townships and have been distributed at home. Now Senator Ray Paddock of Wauconda proposes two laws which would weaken the effect of the Finn Pauper act and would again take rural money for poor relief in urban centers.

Better Eggs

Farm folk, growers and other poultrymen of Illinois, who at last have a million dollar egg a year, can get a higher price for their product and enter into the growing demand for quality eggs, according to a new circular, "Producing and Marketing Good Eggs," which has just been issued by the college of agriculture, University of Illinois.

HOPE FOR REAL ECONOMY in government operation have been children of the free will operating in the house and senate in authorizing appropriations for the fiscal year of 1934. The much-mooted economy in veterans affairs is apparently nothing but an easily exploded bubble. The record shows that the cost of the federal government is spending two dollars for every dollar taken in at the treasury this year.

It is high time that the automobile owners of Illinois realize that it is time for the true and honest payment of this four million dollar, annually in license fees, which is not for the true and honest payment of the land road system, that the individual owner of the motor car should have to pay for his license fee $4 more per year for his license fee.

There are a few facts to remember, however. During a depression, there is much more unemployment and poverty in the cities. During both normal and boom periods, there was a great deal higher degree of prosperity in the cities. When the economic machinery operated smoothly, workers and small investors flocked to the cities. They enjoyed a "better living" than they did in sparsely populated communities. Street car conductors and street sweepers divided the amount of profit they made on Cities Service and Commonwealth Edison. The theaters were filled up every night, automobiles were sold in great numbers and the gasoline filling stations kept open 24 hours a day. At the same time residents of small towns and farms enjoyed modest living that did not vary so much from their "pinched existence" of depression days.

It is high time that the automobile owners of Illinois realize that it is time for the true and honest payment of this four million dollar, annually in license fees, which is not for the true and honest payment of the land road system, that the individual owner of the motor car should have to pay for his license fee $4 more per year for his license fee.

During those boom periods, the city politicians, business leaders, and metropolitan press made no suggestions about dividing their profits with the farmer and small town dweller. There was no back to the farm movement when extra profits were to be made from greater city populations. In fact, workers of all kinds in both the white collar and overall classifications were encouraged to move to the cities. Consequently the current movement for legislation to force towns and farms to help support the unemployed of large cities is not as logical and fairly warranted as it appears on the surface.

CONGRESS with only two weeks remaining will wind up its affairs with relatively little accomplished other than the spectacular and fruitless wrangling. Nine appropriations bills are awaiting attention of the senate. The house has laid-aside hundreds of vital measures to take up their hand-icapped favorites. These representatives are now marking time for the closing of March 4.

SOMEWHAT OF A SHOCK to the scores of national lawmakers who are now known as "lame ducks" will result when they realize that hazardous have been erected against them. There is a statute which expressly prevents certain government officials from practicing before departments for a period of two years after retirement from office. This action was taken some time ago to check abuses growing up by defeated legislators selling their services as lobbyists.

Illinois Group Investigates Sales Tax in Mississippi

Gathering material on sales tax laws for a report to a joint session of the state tax commission on February 7, Senators Richard Barr, Joliet, and Arthur Heuback, Chicago, has published a trip to Mississippi where they conferred with Governor Bennett Corner of that state and officers of the state tax commission. The workings of the Mississippi two per cent general sales tax. They were also directed to investigate the sales tax which Mississippi has satisfied and we ran across only a few persons still bitterly opposed to the sales tax.

Can Spend One-Third of Gas Tax Within Cities

One-third of the gasoline tax proceeds should be spent by state for highway improvements within municipalities in proportion to their population. This has been the recommendation of a committee of the legislature. Bills are being drafted in Springfield. The commission's report which urges that the second one-third of the gasoline tax go for state wide work outside cities, including both lines and the remaining one-third go to the counties and townships. The work amount to about $28,000,000 annually.

Says $16,000,000 Can Be Cut from State Expenses

Pointing out two-score ways to reduce taxes by reorganizing activities and holding down appropriations, the Carlson commission on state expenses reported to the governor. Horner in his report said that a saving of about $16,000,000 could be made for the true and honest payment of the land road system, that the individual owner of the motor car should have to pay for his license fee $4 more per year for his license fee.

Biennial Budget Follows Survey State Departments

The biennial budget will not be laid before the legislature until Governor Horner's survey of all departments has been finished and he has decided what jobs and activities can be abolished. Hereafter it has been the custom for the incoming governor to turn in the budget largely as it was prepared during the last few months of his predecessor's term. The governor will have to give his personal endorsement to the budget if it is to be expected, but declares it will be reduced.
