Compiles List of Non-Licensed Manufacturers

With the expiration of city and county affidavits including the law enforcing authority of those political subdivisions, the department has begun an investigation to determine the identity of retailers of legal and illegal liquor who are operating without a state license.

Director Joseph J. Rice of the department of bonded revenue has advised that the list of non-licensed retailers has been received from Chicago and Springfield. "The investigation will be state-wide in scope," Mr. Rice said. "It is the intention of the department to enforce every provision of the new regulatory law. The department feels that retailers have had ample time to acquaint themselves with terms of the law, and to comply with them.

"In the case of retailers located in cities, towns, villages, or counties which have not enacted regulatory measures, the department will issue an affidavit to the retailer for the state license fee of $50. The receipt will be delivered by the department as evidence that the holder has made a bona fide attempt to comply with the provisions of the law. When the local government has taken action and granted a license to the retailer, the state receipt may be exchanged for a state license or license by the department. "As a warning to violators of the law, I will attention to the fact that upon conviction they may be fined from $25 to $500, or sentenced to jail from 30 days to 6 months or both."

Pocklington and Obee Are Asked to Resign Jobs

Two prominent Lake county postmasters, William Obee of Highland Park and William Pocklington of Beach, postmasters of Deerfield and Benton townships respectively, have been asked to resign their positions. Both of them have declared they will fight the ouster proceedings.

Obee became the target of criticism following an audit of accounts in which he was accused of accepting excessive fees allowing double payments, and paying favors with certain merchants with whom he was expanding town money.

Pocklington was given the ultimatum early in May when he disappeared from his home, was gone several days and then returned reporting he had been kidnapped, drugged and robbed of $2000.

Both men have had trouble in providing sufficient bonds. Both Pocklington and Obee are residents of South Geneseo street, Waukegan, a nephew and the mother of the same notorious police character, Harry Boyd, twelfth the bond. She scheduled 12 lots in North Chicago, two with dwellings and two market street with one dwelling, an acreage on the bond.

Joseph Dechow of Beach road withdrew Pocklington's bond shortly before he became missing for five days and returned with the story that he was kidnapped and robbed of $2000.

Cooperation of the state highway police with the automobile department has caused an appreciable increase in applications for motor vehicle licenses during the past week. Secretary of State Edward J. Hughes, in view of the depressed financial condition of the country, had extended the deadline beyond all precedent length, but protracted delay, sometimes need, has held the department in check. Supersize Bridges

There is a popular notion in some effect that the even trend of a suspension bridge, such as a cat or dog walk, cause vibration enough to endanger the bridge. It is true that suspension bridges are all designed to resist any or swaying which objects may be over them, and that even a small animal walking over would set up a very sharp vibration. Experiments have shown that a few soldiers marching over a long suspension bridge in regular steps would produce a greater vibration than could much larger force out of step; consequently they are ordered to break step before crossing. In 1851, a suspension bridge in France broke in two under 487 soldiers marching in a step, and nearly half of them were killed.
