

Diggers Draw
Previous to the seventeenth century, when diggers, more or less we know it, the use of the digger was carried on every man served all purposes— from sifting to fighting. Men had their own ready way of settling their differences in this day; a quarrel usually meant a fight, and knives were crossed with a vengeance. Hence the expression, "At Diggers Draw." Even today many people still see in a barren patch of crossed blades knows the sign of a quarrel and bloodshed.

Stainless Steel Secret
The story of the discovery of stainless steel, a secret for several years, is not to be told for another three decades. Harry Brearley, discoverer of the process, has given the "cutlers' company" of Sheffield a sealed envelope, admonishing the society not to open it until the cut-lers' feast of 1933. The envelope contains his story of the discovery.

Longitude and Latitude Longitude is the angle at the pole between two great circles drawn on the earth's surface, passing through the poles, and touching respectively the place whose longitude is in question and the place selected as the origin of longitude. Latitude is the angular distance of a place north or south of the equator.

Small but Powerful Engine A new kind of 12-cylinder engine is only 16 inches high, and therefore can be fitted beneath the floor of a motor car as a spare saver.
