The 3 eggs used in this cake cost 4c

The gas to bake it cost less than 3c

IT'S easy for you to know the cost of the eggs and the milk and the flour that go into a cake. But how about the gas you use when you bake it "for 25 minutes in a moderate (375° F.) oven"?

We've figured that out. To pre-heat the oven for 20 minutes, to keep it at the required temperature for 25 minutes more, uses less than 3 cents' worth of gas in the average northern Illinois home. Or less than you pay for the eggs that go into the batter.

Cooking a whole dinner on your gas range also costs remarkably little. And how easy it is! Just open the burners and there's quick, dependable heat for baking, broiling and boiling. Without a bit of work or worry.

Perhaps you can remember years back when women had to cook on coal stoves. Even if you can't, you can appreciate the convenience your gas service brings to your kitchen. And when it costs less than 3 cents to bake a cake, don't you agree that it's quite a bargain?
