Mobil

Stands the Test

On Saturday afternoon, July 29, a Plymouth Sedan, fueled with Mobilgas and protected only by Mobiloil (it having no radiator or water cooling system attached) was run over the streets of Barrington for about one-half hour. The following heat test report at start and finish shows the remarkable cooling qualities of these two popular Mobil products:

With the Interpreter.
One who has had no experience with interpreters can have little idea of the difficulties of carrying on a conversation through one. You ask a question. The interpreter repeats it. Then follows an animated conversation between the interpret. The conversation between the interpreter trans to grow with. The says so-and-so," summarishing the conversation in a couple of sentences. But does he say so-and-so," you have your doubts, Or iff the interpreter feels had answer into a ten-minute speech until you wonder which of the statements are the interpreter's and which the principal's.—Kansas City Star.
