Migratory Fowl Hunting Season to Open Monday

With the migratory fowl hunting season in Illinois opening at noon Monday, Oct. 16, C. F. Thompson, director of the department of conservation, warns Illinois hunters that his department will make every effort to enforce the new federal hunting regulations.

While the season will extend over a period of two months, the daily bag limit on mallards and other common species of ducks has been reduced from 15 to 12 and possession to two day's bag, Mr. Thompson said.
