Miss Ethel Berghorn

A pretty wedding took place Friday evening at Salem church when Miss Ethel Berghorn, daughter of Mrs. Mary Berghorn of Barrington, became the bride of Frederic Horstberg of Elmhurst, Rev. J. W. Davis of Terre Haute, Ind., formerly a Barrington pastor, officiated using the single ring service.

The bride was beautiful in white satin and lace. Her long tulle veil rippling from a cap was held in place by a band of lilies of the valley, and she carried an arm bouquet of white sweet peas and pink roses. The bridesmaid, Miss Irma Benson, wore a pink satin gown and a corsage of white sweet peas and pink roses.

Warren Powers of Elmhurst served the groom as best man. Joan Ruby of Chicago, pretty little five-year-old flower girl, was assisted by John Hobart Spears, a small nephew of the bride.

Miss Winifred Horstberg, a sister of the groom, was at the organ and played two delightful solos preceding the service.

The wedding party extended to the strains of the March Tannhäuser by Wagner, the bride on the arm of her brother Hobart Berghorn who gave her away before a bank of palms, ferns and beautiful spring flowers.

At the strains of Mendelssohn's march the wedding party returned to the church parlor where a reception was held with eighty guests present.

Mr. and Mrs. Berghorn have left on a motor trip south and on their return will be at home in Chicago.

The following relatives from out-of-town were present at the wedding: Mr. and Mrs. E. Hornberger and daughter Winifred of Elmhurst; Mr. and Mrs. J. Ruby and Mr. and Mrs. C. Mrs. E. Miller Tells Origin of Poppy Day Nov. 9, 1918

With plans formulated for the observance of Poppy Day in Barrington, Monday, May 27, Mrs. Emil Miller, local chairman of the drive, thought it might be interesting to villagers if the history of poppy day were related. Its origin dates back to the morning of November 9, 1918, when a young Georgia woman, serving on the staff of the Y.M.C.A. Overseas Headquarters in New York City, received a copy of a magazine containing Col. John McCrea's poem, "In Flanders Fields." Touched by the poem's reference to poppies growing between the crosses in war cemeteries this young woman, Miss Moira Michael of Athens, Georgia, decided to wear a poppy in honor of the war dead. Purchasing a number of poppies, Miss Michael distributed them among the members of the headquarters staff.

So started the custom of wearing poppies in memory of men who lost their lives in the World War. When the American Legion was organized by returned veterans, the poppy was officially adopted as the Legion's memorial flower. After the American Legion Auxiliary was established, the Legion's poppy program was turned over to the women's organization and has since been carried out annually by the Auxiliary.

The Auxiliary women have taken Miss Michael's idea and developed it into a great national program for commemorating the men of those who died and for bringing aid to those who sacrificed their strength in the nation's service. Early each winter the making of the millions of poppies is begun in government hospitals and convalescent work rooms maintained by the Auxiliary in many parts of the country. Hands of disabled veterans, weary of idleness, are given employment shaping the little red flowers. Sick and discouraged men whose spirits have sunk to despair from long unemployment are given the encouraging experience of again earning money.

A penny a piece is the usual amount paid for each poppy made, and a man, if not too badly disabled can nearly turn out 300 a day. The number each man is permitted to make is restricted in order that he will not overtax his strength and to spread the work among as many men as possible. The work is limited to disabled veterans receiving little or no government compensation. Men with dependent families are given preference.

"Every poppy worn on Poppy Day means that the wearer has thought, at least for a moment, of the men who lie beneath the poppies in France, and has contributed something to the relief and rehabilitation of those who are still suffering from results of the war, the disabled, their families and the families of the dead," said Mrs. Miller.

At the annual outing of the Illinois Audubon society, held at Waukegan, Sunday morning, the singing bird club was represented by Mr. and Mrs. C. R. Stone and son and daughter, William and Phyllis. After visiting the Waukegan bird banding station, the group hiked five miles across the prairie. Lake Michigan gave the opportunity to see some birds, it was reported. Three table mountain pies composed an annual sign as they are sold in this region. They are sold growing naturally in North Carolina on the closed first State bank of Barrington, presented by Howard Brintlinger, was passed. All moneys received by the village were turned over to the directors. The original agreement called for a settlement of $875 in cash and $112.15 in notes or a total compromise settlement of $1,000. Approximately $400 has been received by the village from the sale of the closed bank, raising the present total to about $25,000.

The village assessment fund in the bank at the time of closing was $32,000, it was determined by an audit. The directors felt that if dividends paid out exceeded $32,000, the surplus should be passed on to them.

Old Board Orders Payment of Bills Totaling $3833

Attorney Mahoney to Receive $1000 as Cash Settlement for Fees

The business was quickly cleared up by the board Monday evening, leaving new members a clean working slate.

Bills amounting to $3833.48 were ordered paid. Included in that figure was a cash acceptance of the reduction offer made by David B. Mahoney, village attorney, to take $1000 toward a claim amounting to nearly $1400 for legal expenses in trying cases.

An amendment to a resolution previously made by the board and directors of the closed First State bank of Barrington, presented by Howard Brintlinger, was passed. All moneys received by the village were turned over to the directors. The original agreement called for a settlement of $875 in cash and $112.15 in notes or a total compromise settlement of $1,000.
