Les Bartholomew Hurls Sixth Win for Elgin Team

Les Bartholomew continued his razzing pace with the Elgin Trades Council nine by pitching a 7-3 win over the Milwaukee Red Sox at the Kennel club park in Elgin, Sunday.

The Barrington south-paw gave up only six hits in achieving his sixth win of the season for the Elgin club. The Trades Council team has won eight games this year and all but two of the victories are Bartholomew's.

Bartholomew pitched a scoreless inning at the local diamond Sunday as the Libertyville team was out of the local diamond.

Queen Elizabeth's Musical; Could Play the Virginal The word harpsichord was invented because it was seen that the instrument had a harp-like shape, and when a keyboard was added chords could be struck on it. Virginals, spinets, and clavichords are all like the early harpsichords, the difference being in the way the string is plucked, whether by a quill or wedges of brass.

Queen Elizabeth played the virginal well, and in her day set musical fashions. Instrumental-makers and composers were very busy in the Seventeenth and Eighteenth centuries making better instruments and writing music for them. Later harpsichords had a device for opening and shutting the lid to increase or decrease the sound, and there was a separate keyboard with single strings to make soft sounds. All Eighteenth-century concertos had a harpsichord, played generally by the conductor.

By the Nineteenth century the piano had arrived, for people wanted more light and shade in music, and the harpsichord could not produce it. Curiously enough, a Spaniard wrote the best early harpsichord music, Domenico Scarlatti, whose music sounds fresh even today.—Montreal Herald.
