"Ten Nights in a Bar Room" to Open at Summer Theatre

Revival of Old Thriller to Start Three-Night Run Saturday

The Lake Zurich Summer Theatre goes from the sublime to the ridiculous the week when it opens a three night run of "Ten Nights in a Bar Room" on Saturday after completing its run of "Macbeth" at the Yarmark.

Aside from Walton Pyre and Luella Canterbury of Chicago, and Robert Shrewsbury and Harrison Harrison of the American Art Theatre as guest artists, the "Macbeth" cast included practically every member of the colony except the cook. He was on duty as door keeper. Although the undertaking itself may have seemed prosaic, the company gave a most creditable performance and it was a case of unfortunate last minute changes of cast. Preston Heath Tuttle of the Cleveland Playhouse directed the performance and it was staged by Russell Rink of the Goodman theatre.

The old time thriller, "Ten Nights" is being directed by Mrs. Canterbury, and promised an evening of the sort of entertainment over which our grandparents enjoyed weeping sadly tears. There will be appropriate musical specialties between acts to the accompaniment of a wheezy organ, and the music of the American Art Theatre, Russell and Chrystal Rink, Louis and Patricia Canterbury, Imogene Kaufman, Russell Sise, Jerome Leonard, Robert Grimm, Julia Church, Mildred Price and Jasper Mastroianni.

The theatre is located in the old "Ditie Inn" on Route 22 in Lake Zurich. The curtain rises at 8:50 p. m.

Women Hand us Shows
Up until the World War men used more shoes than women but in recent years the trend has changed and the men are making their shoes last longer. Out of the nearly 200,000,000 pairs produced annually in the United States, says Publishers Magazine, only about 70,000,000 pairs are new.

Moore's Gain in Civilization
The civilization of Moore, the abolition of New Zealand, are making progress in civilization. This was shown during the ceremony in the Moore clubhouse at Hamilton to observe the one hundred and twentieth anniversary of the arrival of Christian missionaries. It was pointed out that the Moors, who now number about 60,000, are devoted Christians. They have their churches and even their bishop, whose title is Bishop of Aotearoa, the Maori name for New Zealand. These natives now read, write and speak English. There are Maori football leagues. Maori members of parliament, and a minister representing the race in the New Zealand cabinet.
