Event in Palestine Is Important Mission Point

Event in Palestine is the port of the Holy Land. The city is a little town located on a hillside in the West Bank and is backed by the Jordan River. It is an important center of the American mission, which has built many schools and colleges. The ruins of the city, which takes its name from the fact that it was destroyed by the Romans in the year 70, are still to be seen in the ruins of the city.

The Arab pride of the city is where Noah, according to the Bible, landed on the Tower of Babel. Solomon built a temple here and it was the site of a battle which was won by the lovely queen of Sheba.

Such things to the land of Palestine, a land that is microscopic in size but so important in influence. Every one in it brings a new experience and every experience has a lesson in history, to religion and to the life of the nation. No other area has produced so many great men who have shaped the history of mankind.

"Hail Columbia"

The words of the song "Hail Columbia" were written during a period of great political excitement in 1846 by Judge Joseph Hopkinson and were set to the melody of the "President's March," composed the same year, in honor of President Washington, by Hylton, orchestral leader of the John Street Theater, New York. The composition, first published at a theatrical benefit, attained great popularity, and on account of its patriotic sentiment has become a representative national song.

Crete Farmer Wins Pure Milk Contest for 'Neatest Farm'

George Ohlendorf, Crete, won the singular honor of having the "neatest farm" in competition with 18,000 farmers in Illinois, Wisconsin, Michigan and Minnesota. This award is made annually by the Pure Milk Association amongst its members and is restricted to dairy farms.

Mr. Ohlendorf has been farming at Crete for the last 20 years and has devoted much time to improving conditions on his place.

Spit-and-span in every respect, the dairy farm covers an area of 167 acres. He maintains a fine herd of 12 Brown Swiss cows as well as producing crops familiar to the farmers of the country.

Every modern convenience that a farm can have is available. Electricity plays a predominant part in the operation of the farm. Starting from a "mudhole," Mr. Ohlendorf has carefully planned his buildings, with the result that his dairy farm is a fine example of efficiency.

Mrs. Ohlendorf has taken her part well in maintaining congenial surroundings. She has devoted a great deal of time to the cultivation of flowers and in consequence shrubs and beds beautify the home.

With the exception of the farm house, the buildings are painted a cherry red with white trim. The farm home is a fresh clean white and fenced around. It is a gem garden.

Plebiscite Long in Use in European Countries

In 1902, Bonaparte, when the senate refused to make him consul for life, determined to "consult the people" on the subject of his status. It was unprecedented that a simple coarsal decree should order a plebiscite. The fact that it did was rather a coup d'etat. The results of the plebiscite were a singular success for Bonaparte, observes a writer in the New York Times.

The right to name his successor was openly demanded by Napoleon in the Senate-Committee. Only one step more was needed to make the right hereditary and to enable him to give himself a monarchical or imperial title. This final step was taken in 1804 when the first consul of the republic became emperor of France. The proposition was submitted to a plebiscite which was taken by universal suffrage in the same form as its predecessors, in May, 1804. There were 3,572,829 affirmative and 2,769 negative votes.

Probably the best known example of the use of the plebiscite in French history was in 1852, when the coup d'etat of 1851 was confirmed and the title of emperor was bestowed upon Napoleon III. It was his use of the plebiscite that made the term familiar and connected it with the idea of despotism posing as liberal. He has even been described as "a plebiscite adventurer."

Cause of Red Sea Being Red

This long and narrow body of water, since the completion of the Suez canal, the chief thoroughfare of trade between Europe and Asia, is stained on each side by arid wastes of reddish sand, writes G. R. Turner, in the Kansas City Times. This sand and the red algae a form of seaweed, combine to impart to the waters of the sea a reddish tinge much of the time and thus enable it to justify its name.

4 POINT COAL

Is GENUINE Mined in the Very Heart of the Pocahontas Region

THESE FOUR POINTS WILL MEAN MONEY IN YOUR POCKET AND COMFORT IN YOUR HOME—

- 1 Low Volatile—Smokeless
- 2 High Fusion assures no clinkers
- 3 Firm structure—no dirt or slack
- 4 Free Burning—quick response to drafts

7-Point Pocahontas burns to a light "fluffy" ash. This powdery ash is a distinct advantage, for it is a sure indication of the BEST quality a Pocahontas coal can possess... the quality of FREE BURNING.

"Free Burning" means that the coal burns without caking in the furnace. It requires no poking or stirring... yet... open the drafts, and it will respond, almost instantly, with a surge of heat! Use 4-Point and you'll find no unburned coal in your ash pit... You'll have no long waits in the morning before the house gets warm. These light, fluffy ashes are easy to handle, too... the ash cans are so much lighter. And, of course, since this coal holds fire so well, responds to draft control readily and requires but little stoking, it reduces vastly the number of trips you make to the basement.

Party at Library Saturday

Miss Olive Hanson, local librarian, will be hostess at a party Saturday afternoon for members of the Vacation Reading club who finished at least eight books during the summer. The majority of children read many more and it is to the credit of Miss Hanson that they are developing a taste for good literature. According to rules of the contest, only books of a high standard of literary merit were acceptable. In announcing the results of this week's paper, printed earlier, an account of the contest failed to name Miss Hanson as organizer and supervisor of the competition.

Fake Antique Volumes

An ingenious trick of the makers of antique volumes is to print titles and other books on old paper. To make such spurious volumes completely safe in appearance, the printers used in printing the pages usually are made from photostatic copies of the original pages of the literary work being imitated. Expert bibliophiles have ways, however, of easily detecting such counterfeits. (Montreal Herald.)
