

"Little Big Shot" Introduces Sybil Jason, Child Star

"China Seas" Continues Run, "Alice Adams" Billed Wednesday-Thursday

Swashbuckling action, exotic atmosphere and the lure of tropical waters combine to make "China Seas" a superb evening of entertainment. Add to this the work of such stars as Clark Gable, Jean Harlow, Wallace Beery, Lewis Stone and C. Aubrey Smith, and the screening becomes an event.

Jazzy and enthusiastic crowds greeted the opening of "China Seas" last night at the local theatre; two more days remain of the scheduled showing here.

Women are bum newspapermen! Or are they? This question can be decided best after seeing "Front Page Woman," with Betty Davis playing the job-sister on one sheet and George Brent star reporter on a rival paper.

There's no waiting for things to happen in "Front Page Woman"; and the Saturday night audience will find this feature, together with some very excellent short subjects, united into a most engaging program.

Movie goers, the world over, will soon be talking about Sybil Jason, the new 5-year-old star sensation. She will be introduced to local fans Sunday and Monday in the screen play, "Little Big Shot," with a supporting cast of stars headed by Glenda Farrell, Robert Armstrong, Edward Everett Horton and Jack LaRue.

Sybil is not "just another youngster"; she has a very definite personality in addition to her skill as a dancer, pianist, singer and mimic. She was born in Capetown, Africa, has already been the star of two London pictures, and has made a name for herself as a radio entertainer on London networks.

"Little Big Shot," a story with the colorful background of the Great White Way, depicts the lives of the denizens who make their living by their wits. Short subjects for this bill include a new Charlie Chase comedy, Rubinfel Band Act, cartoons and late issues of Paramount News.

"The Thin Man" with William Powell and Myrna Loy, started the vogue of sophisticated mystery yarns. While it may not be too best of the lot, it would be difficult to name a better. So many requests for a return of this picture have been made that the manager of the local theatre is returning the picture for the bargain night offering, Tuesday.

The difficulties that a young girl must overcome to free herself from the fetters of poverty and social odium are vividly portrayed in "Alice Adams," which opens at the Crystal Lake church and Sunday school at the Regional conference at Hanover.

"Alice Adams" is an adaptation of Booth Tarkington's Pulitzer prize novel; it will be screened Wednesday and Thursday nights.
