

WHAT'S GOING ON IN WASHINGTON

The day of decision approaches for the farm control program as the supreme court promises an early hearing of one processing tax case and receives another case involving the law as amended at the last session of congress.

The new case, brought by the Washburn-Crosby Company of Kansas City, Mo., is designed to test the law as revamped to meet possible court objections. It challenges particularly the provision which would prevent recovery of that part of processing taxes passed on to others, in case the tax is declared unconstitutional.

The department of justice gives a significant glance towards its holder as a warning to traders who make light of the presidential proclamation forbidding the sale of war implements to belligerent nations.

It takes the form of prosecutions being prepared against certain airplane and firearm firms which are alleged to have shipped war equipment to Bolivia and Paraguay in violation of the embargo placed on such shipments by congress on May 28, 1934.

Maximum penalty is a fine of $1000 and two years' imprisonment. For violation of the recent neutrality proclamation, the penalty is much more severe—a fine of $10,000 and five years in prison.

Uncle Sam's books for the year to date (since July 1) are out of balance to the amount of one billion dollars.

Taking time by the forelock, Uncle Sam makes sure of the control of three Pacific islands straggling 1600 miles south and west of the Hawaiian group—uninhabited but having potential value for a trans-Pacific air route.

Their names are Jarvis, Baker and Howland. Messes adopted is that recognized under international usage for the claiming of unpeopled land, namely, colonization. This means in the case of these islands that one or more Americans are permanently settled there.
