A Little Patience

By MARY STARBUCK KEHR

"Now I must be careful or there will be trouble," said Mrs. Sanders to herself, as she stopped her car to let her sister out. It was a one-door car, and Sterling, who was in the front seat, had to get out of the car to let his Aunt Katherine out. Besides that, three-year-old Gordon was in the back seat with his Aunt Katherine, and of course he wanted to get out, too, because this was the home of another aunt, and he loved to visit here. But Mother had little time to spare today. However, she, too, alighted from the car, and went into the house with the children.

After they had exchanged greetings and talked for a few minutes, the called each child by name, saying, "Are you ready?" Sterling responded at once, but little Gordon was absorbed in looking into the dining room and kitchen, so Mrs. Sanders went out to the car. She gestured Sterling to a place on the back seat, and then talked with a guest who had remained in the car.

In the meantime, little Gordon had satisfied himself with his inspection of the dining room and kitchen and had transferred his observations to the living room, where he leaned on the leather seat of the davenport, very happy in his freedom. Then Mrs. Sanders came to the door, and called, "Come, Gordon, we are going now." Instantly he responded, running to her, and willingly going out to the car. "Wasn't that fine?" said her sister in an undertone. "Wasn't that worth waiting for?"

"Yes, it took just a little patience; if I had not used that, there would have been a struggle, while this way I had willing cooperation. It was much easier for both of us."

Speaking of the incident afterward, to a friend, the guest said, "I think a little patience would help many other parents in solving their problems. That first call was so worded that there was no opportunity for disobedience. That short wait was time well spent. Just a few minutes will so often make the difference between open rebellion and willingness, and while it seems hard sometimes to give the children this little time of freedom, it saves so much wear and tear on the nerves and dispositions of both mothers and children that it is certainly worth while."

"Yes," said her friend, "and think of the good effect upon the characters of the children as well as the parents. Both are growing better-natured and more cooperative. As parents become less aggressive and autocratic in their methods, children become more thoughtful and considerate of them and, also, better able to adjust themselves to changing conditions. And how much that means!"

THE NEW FORD V-8 FOR 1936

Why do we say The New Ford V-8 for 1936?
What is new about it?
Of course, the newest engine in the low-price car field is still the V-8 engine. Since Ford made it available to all car users (keeping it as economical as cars with fewer cylinders) the Ford V-8 has been the newest engine on the market, and remains the newest for 1936.

You may buy a car on minor "talking points"—some specially advertised feature "with the car thrown in"—but after all, it is the engine you buy when you buy a car. Hence we put the engine first.

Other new points about the car make a long list.

In lines are much more beautiful. The hood is longer and sweeps forward over the distinctive new radiator grille, giving the car a length and grace that are instantly impressive. The fenders are larger, with a wide flare. Horns are concealed behind circular grilles beneath the headlamps. New steel wheels.

Ford upholstery—always of staid quality and excellent taste—is rich and enduring. The appointments of the car have a new touch of refinement. There is no question about the increased beauty of the Ford V-8 for 1936.

In more practical matters, many improvements have been made—steering is made easier by a new steering gear ratio. The cooling system circulates 5 1/2 gallons of water through a new, larger radiator. Natural thermostat action is assisted by two centrifugal water pumps. New style hood louvers permit a rapid air-flow around the engine.

Easier, quieter shifting of Ford gears—The gear shift lever now travels a shorter distance.

The two qualities you want in brakes—Brakes that stop the car with ease and certainty. Ford Super-Safety Brakes of the long-tested, fool-proof, mechanical design.

Safety—as always—in the electrically welded genuine steel body. Safety Glass all around of an extra cut. Hand-dreds have written grateful letters because this glass has protected the safety of their families.

A car you can drive without strain all day, if you like, in city or country. Steady, holds the road, responds to the driver's touch like a well-trained horse. You don't have to "push" or "fight" the Ford V-8—driver and car easily get on terms of good understanding with each other.

An engine has much to do with the roominess of a car. Very much indeed. A long engine uses up car space. The compact V-8 engine permits much of the ordinary engine space to be used by passengers.

It really is a great car in every way, this 1936 Ford V-8—the finest, safest, most dependable Ford car ever built. Now on display by Ford dealers.
