

"Here Comes the Band" at Catlow Sunday, Monday

"Shipmates Forever" Featured on Thanksgiving Day Program

When such characterizations as afforded by Greta Garbo, Fredric March, Freddie Bartholomew and May Robinson are added to the classic significance of Tolstoy's "Anna Karenina," there results a production of signal importance. Two days were allotted by the local theatre for the showing of this feature; tonight closes its run.

Friday and Saturday nights will each have its separate program. "Warner Olan" in "Charlie Chan in Shanghai," Friday, and Edward Arnold in "Diamond Jim" on Saturday.

The exploits of Charlie Chan are always stirring, and his new adventures in Shanghai will be followed with unflagging interest. "Diamond Jim" is the private life of Jim Brady, one of America's arresting characters, whose life began above a saloon and carried him to spectacular wealth.

Ted Lewis, high-chaited troubadour, and his merry-mad musicians will come to the Catlow screen Sunday and Monday in a blaze of glory.

The unusual musical story, which starts with the end of the war with Lewis as a regimental band-master.

Virginia Bruce, Donald Cook, Spanky McFarland, Ted Healy, and a host of others, build this show up to 'top' in entertainment.

"David Copperfield" with its strikingly chosen cast is to be brought back as the bargain night offering Tuesday. Those wishing to see the picture from the opening scenes should arrive at 7:05 or 8:10, which, because of the length of the film, are set as starting times.

Zeen Pitts and Lucien Littlefield will be seen in delightful play, Wednesday night, when their picture, "She Gets Her Man" will have its local showing.

Something to rave about will be the Thanksgiving program arranged for the Catlow. It's brand new; sparkles with wit, is punctuated with infectious tunes, and has the patriotic appeal furnished by the Annapolis Naval academy and its cadets in training.

It has a team from the pinnacle of stardom set in sweeping sequences and thrills. You've guessed it! None other than "Shipmates Forever," with Dick Powell, Ruby Keeler, Lewis Stone and scores of featured players.

Add to this a Football Sport-light, and "The Robber Klitten," a special cartoon in new color, and lovers of the screen have ready at hand royal entertainment for Thanksgiving. Performances will be continuous from 3:00 p. m., Thanksgiving Day; and the program will be repeated Friday night.

Some Wrestling Old Sport The first Japanese Sumo wrestler took place in 28 B. C. The winner was Shikane, who ever since been regarded as titular deity of Japanese wrestling. In the national sport of Japan and for nearly 2,000 years Japanese wrestlers have been carefully trained. The daughter of a wrestler is bound to marry a wrestler, and a wrestler is allowed to marry none but the daughter of a wrestler. This has resulted in a lot of very large and powerful, but fat men. Some wrestlers of 2,800 pounds in height often average of 300 pounds. It is considered a great advantage in this sport of wrestling to be so large, as that the opponent cannot get arms completely around one.

Chicago Acclaims "Dodsworth" to Be Dramatic Success

Chicago has seen Walter Huston in the star role of "Dodsworth" and has acclaimed both the actor and the play with unending praise. The critics were unanimous in declaring this dramatization of Sinclair Lewis' famous novel by Sidney Howard as the best theatrical entertainment to visit the Midwest in the last ten years, and the public has substantiated their opinion by flocking to fill the Erlanger theatre at every performance. The flattering reception given this splendid Max Gordon offering is but a repetition of the ovation given both Mr. Huston and "Dodsworth" in New York, where they played for 42 continuous weeks before starting on the road.

Charles Olliver, critic of the Chicago Tribune, declares Huston's "Dodsworth" as one of the most notable stage successes of the year. He goes on to say that Max Gordon staged the piece with the superb finesse that has made him a contemporary. Belasco, "Dodsworth," he adds, "is a rich adventure in playacting modern in treatment but free from all ultra moderna annoyances."

Ashton Stevens, dean of American dramatic reviewers, writes: "Certainly Walter Huston's Sam Dodsworth belongs in the nation's gallery of classic dramatic portraits as memory shows them to me, and nothing that you or I can say will blast it out. I have seen Huston's Dodsworth only once, so far, yet already I believe it has become for me what I and others too often and too lightly term a classic."

Gall Borden of the Chicago Daily News warns "Any tycoon who may be figuring on retiring should visit the Erlanger. And if he will be slightly bored with the people and the things he likes, he should be sure to take her along and buy her seats where she won't miss a thing."—Adv.
